e live in the age of the makeover. If you're not having your house destroyed in 60 minutes, face botox to look 10 years younger, being bootcamped to hell in a competitive weightloss telethon or your wardrobe 'adjusted' by a lanky asian man in thick rimmed glasses...well, you're just not trying.

However, a makeover in life needn't be visual. It could be mental or organisational. I've made a few decisions this month with that in mind. The first of which is email. It troubles me. Well, seemingly unsolicited emails from businesses. I'd say I'm certain that 9/10 of the emails I get sent I don't want. Each carefully crafted and full of pictures of things. I've therefore been on a mass unsubscribe this month. An inbox makeover. Waking up to forty emails, having only gone to bed at 1am, seems ridicuous. Sneaky companies time their mailouts to get you first thing in the morning. The thing is, when it's one of forty, it's not so clever and you hate each one a little more as you delete, delete, delete over breakfast.

In doing so I sometimes stop momentarily to scan the products provided by a new era of websites that allow you to post, pin and compile your dream items and allows cool retailers to do the same. It can be overwhelming. Fancy, Fab, Clippings and Pinterest emplore me to review the new products that will allow me to makeover my world. My perfect life is just one digital makeover away. It reminds me a bit of the start of Fight Club, a film that's all about makeovers. You can make yourself over today. You just have to choose how.

We're a small island where everyone has an opinion on society, business, customer service, politics and, well, just about everything. If you've ever trawled the murky depths of thisisjersey you'll have seen the range of submitted social commentary in the form of comments on news stories. They vary from the sublime to the ridiculous. We enjoy both ends of the spectrum but would like to attract the former to our hallowed pages and new website. As such, we're establishing younews. Think of youtube but with gallery news created by you, our readers, rather than youtube's...er...tubes?

EMAILS TO MONKEY

Sometimes we get answer phone messages from our readers telling us how much they've enjoyed something in the magazine. Sometimes we get messages from little old ladies using language little old ladies shouldn't use. We even had a heavy breather once who either has a magazine fetish or dialed the wrong number. That's another story. We love feedback. It's the way we improve and maintain our goal of connecting with our audience. We thought that this year we'd document this feedback in a 'letters to the editor' style page. Whether tweets, emails, website comments or answer phone messages, we'll be picking the best one each month and buying that reader lunch.

MMA VETERAN

JONAH FALCON

Greetings men, boys and eunuchs. The staff at Gallery have themed this issue of their magazine around 'makeovers', so it's only natural that they should beg Jersey's beefiest slab of toned-up man muscle to share the wisdom that transformed him into the gorgeous Hercules he is today. That man is me, Jonah Falcon, and this article is your ticket to the gun show.

You may not believe it, but I wasn't born buff. The erection of this mighty temple to masculinity was a dedicated, gruelling journey from newborn weakling to chiselled man-majesty. I started off like you, so perhaps the day you picked up this magazine is your first step on the long, hard path up beefcake mountain. You'd better not be a lightweight flipping past on your way to the sections about music and art, because that path is strewn with the bodies of lesser men, weaker men, men who think being able to use the toilet without difficulty is somehow more important than being MEGA-RIPPED with 0.5% body fat. I'm not going to lie to you son, this path's as hard as one of my quadriceps after squat lifting a Mondeo, but the reward is a physique that makes women go weak at the knees and buttocks that can crush a radiator into tinfoil.

You've got to train hard, work hard, even sleep hard. The only rest is between big reps, and every day is another opportunity to put failure in a sleeper hold. I'll teach you to lift, and then I'll teach you to fight. Men like me don't just stand around looking good, sweat dripping from our oakstained slabs of solid brawn - we also like to grapple other men in pure displays of heterosexual discipline. I regularly put this machine to work inside the ring, crushing man-meat into the octagon mat with my signature fusion of Cuban Jiu Jitsu, North Korean boxing and Polynesian nipple twists. If you work hard enough then maybe one day you could be the meat in that man sandwich, but don't even think about making eye contact with me until you've studied my six part plan like it was the Holy Testosterone Testament and the Book of Rugged Revelations rolled into one.

SHAVE EVERYWHERE

Body hair is just interference for your muscle definition, and waxing your scrotum until it resembles Gregg Wallace is guaranteed to improve your pain tolerance considerably. It's okay to grow a goatee and maybe some sharp sideburns, at a push, but all pro-lifters remember the tragic end of Geoff Capes, who choked to death on a ball of his own nipple fluff after it fell into his protein shake.

THE WORLD IS YOUR GYM

I sleep in the gym as often as I can, so that I can be up and on the bus to shred-city whilst most people are still dreaming of what it would be like to possess a massive pair of oily thighs like yours truly. Few men are as dedicated as me, but when you're just starting out I'd recommend lifting everything you can and doing bicep curls when you're on the phone at work. If anybody looks at you funny, they're just jealous. Anything easy isn't worth doing - take that advice to heart and you'll be spending your lunch hour racking up skull crushers in the break room whilst your co-workers get depressed about how far they've got to go before even thinking about being in your zone.

FOOD IS TURBO FUEL FOR THE ROARING MAN-MACHINE

I don't have time for regular food, as I can't afford to waste valuable energy chewing it. I nourish myself with shakes, PowerMaxx Exxtreme! bars and the occasional injection, so the first thing to do is invest in a blender that's powerful enough to make you a litre of steak and egg smoothie before you get started maxing out the mass each day. Always make sure you grind up your vitamins and put a teaspoon of All-Bran in there - unfortunately there's literally no way to stop yourself needing to take a dump at least once a week. Think of it as a special, extra-painful workout and I promise you'll come to enjoy the 'porcelain deadlift' as much as I do.

LOOK THE PART

I spend most of my waking hours busting out of sweaty, brightly-coloured lycra, but sometimes I have to go to the shops to collect tanning oil or the latest issue of Flex Magazine. Apparently this near-naked display of taut godliness intimidates the nonripped, so I have grudgingly acquired a wardrobe of beefcovering shirts from trusted brands like Tapout, No Fear and Ed Hardy. I suppose I might need something to wear to a funeral one day, and I wouldn't want the friends and family of the dead to be forced to gaze upon my body - undeniably the absolute pinnacle of what it means to be alive.

NEVER UNDERESTIMATE YOUR SEXUAL MAGNETISM

It's easy to forget about the ladies when you're surrounded by rippling specimens of manly perfection, or simply because you spend solo hours admiring your tricep definition from different angles in the mirror. I'm not afraid to say I get a little turned on by my own reflection, but that's an excellent reason to enjoy the moistening effect it has on the fairer, weaker, less rugged sex. Every Rocky needs his Adrian - a partner can mix up your shakes, pick things up off the floor and will look pretty good showing off some breast implants in the passenger seat of your convertible. In fact, some women actually lift too, so tear yourself away from the mirror every now and then and one day you might find a little lady has a chokehold on your heart.

ALWAYS MOTIVATE OTHERS BY MAKING AN EXAMPLE OF YOURSELF

I've learned many things on my path to perfection, and one of the most depressing is that weaklings and jealous people will always try and bring you down. All great men must bear this cross alone. Churchill; Van Damme; Hogan; Schwarzenegger, Reid; they suffered the envy of those people who yearned to bench press 350 and then karate chop a pile of bricks, but simply didn't have the ability to headbutt their way through the pain barrier. You can't avoid them, you can't get away with crushing them, all you can do is be all you can be and try and inspire just a little bit of that masterful manliness in their timid little hearts. If that fails, glare fiercely at them whilst flexing your neck muscles and hope they cross to the other side of the road.

Steve McCurry is an American photojournalist best known for his photograph, "Afghan Girl" that originally appeared in National Geographic magazine. His career was launched when, disguised in native garb, he crossed the Pakistan border into rebel-controlled areas of Afghanistan just before the Soviet invasion. When he emerged he had rolls of film sewn into his clothes. Those images, which were published around the world, were among the first to show the conflict. His coverage won the Robert Capa Gold Medal for Best Photographic Reporting from Abroad, an award dedicated to photographers exhibiting exceptional courage and enterprise. Rebecca Poynton Design is delighted to be exhibiting Steve McCurry's work, all of which is for sale, subject to availability.

PHENOMENON

THAT IS...

THE IMAGE OVERHAUL

This being Gallery's 'Makeover' issue, we decided to take a look at some of our favourite instances of the phenomenon that is the celebrity rebrand.

Not everyone in the public eye is capable of doing a complete U-turn; indeed, many are cursed to perform the same act over and over again for eternity, in a sort of purgatorial Groundhog Daystyle lifelong nightmare. Take Sid Owen, aka Eastenders' Ricky Butcher. He was sick of being a miserable, pug-faced soap opera also-ran, and in 2000 embarked on a career as a pop star. One cod-reggae cover single later, he was back in Eastenders, only to leave, then return, then leave, then return, and then chuck the whole thing in and retire from acting. Of course, for every Ricky Butcher there's a Charlene from Neighbours, who later came to be known as Kylie Minogue, and for every Bruce Forsyth (who has actually been a camp, doddering and slightly lecherous eighty-five year-old buffoon since 1912) there's an Amy Winehouse, who went from slightly shy girl-next-door jazz singer to beehive-wearing tattooed tearaway and style icon.

Pop culture is littered with examples of famous figures who have ditched their image, either intentionally or otherwise, and undergone drastic reinventions.

Here are a few of our favourites:

RUSSELL BRAND

They say that the best pop culture icons are the ones that you don't even have to see in full light to recognise; all you need to see is a silhouette to identify them instantly. Standup comic Russell Brand certainly seemed to have recognised that when he underwent his revamp in the mid-noughties. Going from a scruffy jeans, t-shirt and hoodie-wearing presenter of Big Brother's Eforum in 2004 to, in his own words, an "S&M Willy Wonka", Brand became a style icon, one of the world's most bankable comedians, and his combination of John Cooper Clarke haircut, Pete Doherty wardrobe and heroin and sex addiction backstory only served to make him a favourite with the tabloids. To be fair, he was no stranger to controversy anyway, having been fired from his first presenting job with MTV in 2001, for dressing up as Osama Bin Laden the day after the September 11th attacks. But stories of drugs, high profile girlfriends, a charge for beating up a photographer in LA in 2010 and of course the notorious 'Sachsgate' scandal cemented his place as Hollywood's go-to rock n' roll comedy bad boy. It's little wonder his highest profile acting roles so far have been in Get Him to the Greek, as a drug-addicted rockstar and as the titular boozy philanderer in Arthur. It's certainly been an impressive re-Brand.

Then: Geeky, scruffy E4 presenter with a penchant for the controversial Now: A-list Hollywood comic with a famed penchant for the opposite sex

18 | gallery JERSEY'S STYLE MAGAZINE

SNOOP DOGG

Calvin 'Snoop Dogg' Broadus shocked the rap world last year when he announced that he was swapping his guns n' bling lifestyle for that of peace-loving Rastafarian reggae star, and wanted to be known from them on as 'Snoop Lion.' Having decided that he had outgrown the gangsta lifestyle that had made him famous but which had also brought him his fair share of pain and suffering with the loss of friends such as Tupac Shakur, gunned down in 1996, Snoop headed to the hallowed Tuff Gong Studios in Trenchtown, Jamaica, to undergo a spiritual transformation - and record a reggae album with producer Diplo and guests including Bunny Wailer. His reincarnation has not been without its critics though - Wailer, after initially embracing Snoop's new life choice, has since renounced Snoop's conversion to Rastafarianism, slamming his "outright fraudulent use of Rastafari Community's personalities and symbolism." Meanwhile, the catchily-titled Ethio-Africa Diaspora Union Millennium Council (aka Rastafari Millennium Council) told Snoop "smoking weed and loving Bob Marley and reggae music is not what defines the Rastafari Indigenous Culture!" It possibly doesn't help that he continues to tour and record under the name Snoop Dogg...

Then: Gun-toting gangsta rapper Now: Spliff-wielding, peace loving Rastafarian reggae star (sort of)

LANCE ARMSTRONG

Hands up who found Lance Armstrong interesting and exciting back when he was the Usain Bolt of cycling? Yeah, not many of you. When he had yellow jerseys coming out of his ears as a 'seven time Tour de France winner, full time cancer fighter' (his description) and was the perfect all American hero, quite frankly, he was a boring sod. The sort of boring sod that gets filed next to other boring sods like Alan Shearer, Michael Owen and Gary Lineker - bland, somehow too perfect and also with an added dash of smugness just to top it off. However, when he finally owned up to the doping allegations that had hung over him for years, he underwent an instant transformation to sporting supervillain. If his battle against cancer and return to the sport was an inspirational story, the bombshell that Lance was actually a scheming, seemingly sociopathic cheat who had bullied fellow cyclists into partaking in the systematic use of performance enhancing drugs, was a thrilling twist. After all, who wants their heroes to be cleaner than clean and whiter than white? Everyone prefers Batman to Superman, and really, everyone actually prefers the Joker to Batman. In other words, we all love a bit of a bastard don't we? N.B Gallery does not endorse the use of performance enhancing drugs or cheating in sport. Play nicely readers.

Then: All-American superhero cyclist Now: All-American cheating, bullying supervillain of the highest order

MARK WAHLBERG

Mark Wahlberg has technically had not one but two revamps of his image. To say that as a youth growing up Wahlberg was somewhat unruly is quite the understatement. A cocaine addict as a thirteen year old, a member of a Boston street gang as a teenager and charged with attempted murder at the age of sixteen, Wahlberg pledged to change his ways and reinvented himself as rapper Marky Mark, and with his band The Funky Bunch scored a string of chart hits in the early 90s. As Marky Mark, Wahlberg became as famed for his trademark washboard stomach as for his bad boy image, and became the face/abs of Calvin Klein, and a pin-up for pre-pubescent girls worldwide. Stage three of Wahlberg's metamorphosis came when he embarked on an acting career, first earning plaudits opposite Leonardo Di Caprio in The Basketball Diaries before his breakthrough leading role in Paul Thomas Anderson's Boogie Nights. He has since been nominated for an Oscar for The Departed, been critically acclaimed for his portrayal of boxer Micky Ward in The Fighter, and enjoys a rarified status as both one of Hollywood's highest earners and one of its most credible actors. That credibility is about to be put to the test however, as he takes up the lead role in Michael Bay's upcoming and sure-to-be-boring Transformers sequel.

L. RON HUBBARD

As the founder of Scientology, Layafette Ronald Hubbard is one of the 20th Century's most controversial figures, and one who has sparked great debate about man's willingness to follow religious doctrine based on blind faith. Having published the self-help book Dianetics: The Modern Science of Mental Health (a publication which has been denounced by medical professionals as lacking empirical evidence for its claims and variously been described as a "creepy bit of mind mechanics", a "crackpot rant" and as "utter nonsense"), Hubbard founded the Church of Scientology in 1953, and what started as little more than a cult now has millions of members worldwide, including such famous figures as Tom Cruise and John Travolta. The religion has been criticised for the financial demands made of members, its secrecy and for its pressuring of the IRS, via countless lawsuits, to grant it tax exemption, and Hubbard himself has been branded a charlatan and as being quite possibly certifiably insane. Before his life as the charismatic spiritual leader of the biggest new religion of the 20th Century, it's well known that Hubbard was a writer of trashy fantasy and science fiction stories during the 1930s and '40s, with titles including Typewriter in the Sky, Final Blackout and the still-unpublished Excalibur, said to be the genesis for Dianetics and, ultimately, Scientology. During an out of body experience triggered by the hallucinogenic effects of nitrous oxide (during a dental extraction), Hubbard had an epiphany, the inspiration for a book outlining the basic principles of human existence. Hubbard believed that the book would revolutionise the way people viewed the world, and also claimed that anyone that read the manuscript either went insane or committed suicide. It was this science fiction manuscript that led him to found the Church of Scientology. Crikey.

BLACK EYED PEAS

A long time ago, seemingly in a galaxy far, far away, The Black Eyed Peas actually used to be good. Can you believe that? Signed to Ruthless Records, run by NWA's Easy E, the 'Peas spent the 90s as a credible alternative hip hop group, not too dissimilar to the likes of cult rap acts Black Sheep or A Tribe Called Quest. The addition of singer Sir Alex Ferguson and subsequent 2003 release of commercial crossover hit album Elephunk and its lighters-in-theair wet blanket of a single 'Where Is the Love?' saw them become global superstars, and they were roundly denounced by hip hop fans as sellouts. That Elephunk wasn't even their artistic nadir that was surely the electronic turd-in-a-basket Guetta-fest 'I Gotta Feeling' - is testament to the group's willingness to plumb new depths of creative bankruptcy in order to shift a few more discs. It's been a gradual shift from 'pretty good' to 'stinkingly awful' - a sort of slow motion American Werewolf in London transformation scene - and in the process will.i.am has gone from being mildly annoying to the biggest plank in music. The man looks like a Gerry Anderson puppet styled by The Riddler, for god's sake - and he's everywhere.

HUNGER PAINS

Sometimes, the need for food can just be overwhelming, or that's at least what a six year old boy thought when he took a midnight drive to get a Chinese takeaway. After popping to the takeaway and finding that it was shut, he managed to hit a traffic sign on the way back and decided to make his way to a repair shop. Luckily, other motorists became concerned when the car was spotted swerving all over the road and dialled 911, who found the boy barely able to see over the dash. "I don't know how he was able to operate everything and see at the same time," said Lapeer County sheriff's deputy Karl Sapp. Deputy Sapp said the boy's father had no idea his son had taken the car until he was woken up by police.

IT'S DIFFERENT DOWN-UNDER

An Australian company is hoping to change the way we shop for underwear with the launch of a new range of slinky lingerie - for men. HommeMystere says its range, which includes padded bras, lacy teddies and frilly thongs, was inspired by the lack of adventurous underwear available for men and apparently, Britain is it's second biggest market! Founder Brent Krausse said "To those that do not 'get' the idea of seeing their man in HommeMystere, it's all about the feel of the fabrics and adding another dimension for the senses. Don't knock it until you try it!"

AHOY THERE!

Women's Institute members wore eye patches and wooden legs for a talk on piracy - not realising the speaker was held hostage for 47 days by Somali pirates. "There he was delivering this harrowing story about how he was held hostage and feared for his life, and we were all sitting there dressed as Captain Hook." Obviously the institute members were aghast when they realised their mistake but Mr Darch said: "They seemed to be a little embarrassed but it didn't offend me in the slightest. He and his crew were taken hostage by 20 gun-toting pirates who hijacked his 120ft ship off Somalia in 2008. They were freed only after a £400,000 ransom was paid. Somehow, to him and the women's institute member the irony was a little lost (at sea...)

After an urgent call from a woman alerting police that there was a 'man screaming for help', officers frantically made their way to the scene in Putnam County, Tennessee. However, when they got there, all they found was a lonely goat, bleating at the top of its lungs and tied to a post. Carlos Mendez, who owns the goat, called Charcoal, said: "He's used to being with the other goats and we separated him. I guess he didn't want to be alone..." Putnam County Chief Deputy Jacky Farley said that even the officers responding to the call thought the goat sounded like a human.

A tattoo for a pay rise?! Well that's a step 40 employees at a New York real estate agency are willing to take. Rapid Realty employees are being offered a 15 per cent hike in their wages if they show their commitment by getting the company logo tattooed. "I think it's a good opportunity to show commitment to a company that makes going to work fun every day," Robert Trezza told CBS New York. Though manager Mr Lolli came up with the scheme, he did admit that he hasn't had his loyalty put into ink - but said he planned to eventually. Colleague Joseph Tighe added: "My wife was a little concerned but I said, you know what, it was the best commitment I could think of."

> THE GREAT ESCAPE

Following last month's Great Escape interviews, we continue to speak to graduates and professionals who have made the decision to base themselves on the other side of the English Channel. More and more young Jersey folk working in various sectors are spreading their wings and deciding to peddle their wares in mainland UK, and for varying reasons. Last month Alex Pearce told us how he left Jersey to pursue a career as a DJ, and chef India Hamilton spoke of the sheer diversity and vibrancy of London's cuisine culture being a big pull factor. In Part 2, we speak to BAFTA-nominated filmmaker Mike Pearce about why he fled the rock and what might inspire him to come back...

NAME MICHAEL PEARCE PROFESSION FILMMAKER

Do you consider London your home for the long-term, and would you ever consider returning to Jersey? London for the next few years, I'm not sure beyond that. There's obviously no film industry on the island so I couldn't really live there, but I want to come back to make my first film in Jersey.

What do you miss about the island? The beach, although I'm not sure if I remember how to surf, or if I even could.

And what are you glad to see the back of? The shit nightlife. What are your long-term career plans? Direct feature films. In the near future I'd like to direct some original TV drama, maybe some commercials.

When did you decide you wanted to become a filmmaker, and when did you realise that it could be a viable career path? When I was eighteen I was applying to do a Fine Art degree and I watched The Seven Samurai and it completely transformed how I saw film; suddenly it wasn't just a form of entertainment but an art form that combined many different disciplines I was interested in – painting, design, music, story, performance etc. Very quickly I decided I wanted to be a film director, though I'm still trying to make it a viable career.

If you weren't pursuing a career in filmmaking, what do you imagine you'd be doing? I'm not really qualified to do anything else, though I always liked the idea of being a detective, maybe because they're so romanticised in cinema. I'd like to be one of the hardboiled maverick types – drives 50mph on the esplanade, carries nunchucks, is a raging alcoholic and misogynist. I could do that.

Could you pursue your career based in Jersey? What would be your advice to someone from Jersey wanting to pursue the same career? I think Jersey is actually quite rich for inspiration but I don't know if you can pursue a 'career' as a filmmaker in Jersey. I went the classic route: I made some short films. Most were pretty bad but it was enough to get onto a film directing degree. So I'd suggest, make shorts on the island – they won't be perfect and you probably won't have much of a budget but if you show potential in being able to tell a story, create characters that have some depth and are able to use cinematic language in a dynamic way then leave the island to study further.

Do you think Jersey does enough to retain young University graduates? What would persuade you to move back? I have no idea what, if anything Jersey does to encourage graduates to stay. If an underground techno scene developed then I'd move back. What are you working on at the moment? I just finished a short TV drama for Channel 4; it stars Joe Gilgun who I've wanted to work with since seeing him in This Is England. Now I'm working on a short for the BFI which stars Maxine Peake, another actor I really admire, I'm really excited to work with her. After that its back to writing my feature film, which I'd like to be shooting on the island next year.

WHAT A WHOOPER!

Everyone knows the fairytale of the ugly duckling who grew up to be a beautiful swan – this must be the ultimate makeover. The word 'swan' is very old and is unchanged from Anglo-Saxon times.

The swans you see in Jersey are likely to be mute swans although Whooper swans arrive here as winter visitors. They are easily distinguished by their beak colour, orange in the mute and yellow in the Whooper. Mute swans also have a graceful curved neck.

Although they look calm and elegant they are quite aggressive and will bully smaller birds. Despite their name mute swans are not silent and can hiss or snort if angry. Legend tells that the swan sings its best song as it is dying, hence the term "swan song". The constellation Cygnus depicts a swan in flight.

Swans are known for their romantic attachment and a pair will mate for life. If one of the pair dies the remaining swan will not find another mate. The male swan or cob will strongly defend its territory. Its wings are so strong that they can break the arm or leg of a human intruder. The nest is huge – up to 13 feet (4 metres) across. In this, four to seven eggs are laid. The cygnets are grey just like the ugly duckling and do not fly for over four months. They often hitch a ride on their mother's back.

On the River Thames all the swans belong to the Crown or to two livery companies. In July each year when the swans are flightless due to moulting they are caught and marked on their beaks to show ownership. Unmarked swans belong to the Crown. This swan –upping ceremony dates back to the Middle Ages when swans were an important luxury food, often being served at banquets in their feathers.

Many tales tell of humans being turned into swans. In The Wild Swans by Hans Christian Andersen 11 princes are turned into swans by their evil stepmother. They are released from the spell by their sister who has spent years making each a shirt from nettles. The Irish legend The Children of Lir also tells of royal children turned into swans – in this story they are condemned to live as swans for 900 years. In the ballet Swan Lake the princess has been turned into a swan by an evil magician.

SMASHING THE GREEN HOUSE

After a year of seeing a green house in the centre of St Ouen's bay, staff from Ashburton got covered in paint last month in order to spruce up Le Don Hilton and restore it to the bright white glory as part of their ongoing support of the National Trust for Jersey and their CSR activities. The job was undertaken during the Jersey Food Festival under the supervision of the National Trust's land manager, Roger Michelle, in time for a 'Pop up feast' to be held at the quirky venue this Sunday during the Jersey Food Festival.

BAGS, LADIES

Jersey women are being encouraged to have a clear out of all their unwanted hats, handbags and heels and to donate them to Jersey Hospice Care for their July sale. The event follows the success of the charity's 'Handbags and Hats for Hospice' sale at the RJAHS Trinity Showground in 2008. This year's event is being held at Fort Regent on Saturday 20 and Sunday 21 July, 10am-4pm. Good quality hats, bags and heeled shoes (including any kind of evening or wedding shoes) can be dropped at various locations across the island including all parish halls, Fort Regent, Communicare, Les Quennevais Sports Centre, the St Mark's, Scared Heart and St Columbus Churches as well as Clarkson House. Jersey Hospice Care is also willing to sell your unwanted wedding dress, 20% for Hospice and 80% for you. All you need to do is securely attach a clearly written label with your name, address and phone number on it, together with the amount you would like to sell it for. Dresses will need to be delivered to Fort Regent on Friday 19 July, (before 4pm) and unsold ones should be collected on Sunday 21 July at 4pm.

JERSEY HERITAGE: THE ANNUAL

Do you want to read about Norman and Norma the Normans? Jersey Heritage have launched its very first Annual - a fun, educational publication designed specifically to help older schoolchildren engage with the Island's history and culture. The Annual has been developed to cater for a slightly older age group than the existing Scrapbook, which continues to be hugely popular with Reception and Key Stage One pupils. Based on the bande dessinée style, the new Annual is similar to the TinTin books and is aimed at Key Stage Two pupils aged 8 - 11 years old. The Annual is packed with fun activities, local history stories, cartoons, facts and an insight into many of the Jersey Heritage sites. One key difference is the introduction of Norma and Norman - the Normans, two central characters who take the reader on a tour through the ages of Jersev's history. The content of the Annual not only complements the school's curriculum but also allows the opportunity for independent and family learning, encouraging children and their families to enjoy the Island's rich heritage together.

STUDENTS TAUGHT TO LIVE LIKE.. ER.. STUDENTS

In a world where iPhone 5s come for 'free' 82 students from Beaulieu School have been learning the importance of being prudent with their money as part of a series of educational seminars organised by Lloyds TSB. The series, which has been running for seven years, is more popular than ever before, with schools now approaching Lloyds TSB to request that their students be offered the opportunity to take part. Jason Lewis, Business Development Manager for Islands Retail, Lloyds TSB, began running the sessions in 2006 as he recognised that youngsters need to understand the importance of managing their money carefully and the importance of financial planning for the future. It has never been more important to talk to our children about how to manage their finances,' said Mr Lewis. 'I've been running these seminars for a number of years and now schools are approaching me to ask if I can deliver sessions to more of their students.'The interactive sessions see Mr Lewis talk through how to budget, the importance of shopping around for the best deals, how to avoid getting into debt and how to manage a first salary as they hit the working world.

MUSIC AND GREENERY

Sunday 9th June sees the fourth of the Jersey Association for Youth and Friendship (JAYF) Open Gardens at Lande a Geon, La Vieux Beaumont, St Peter by kind permission of Mr and Mrs Christopher Edwards. The house dates back to 1905 when it was built for a doctor in the style of a gentleman's residence and is thought to be one of the last Jersey houses built fully in granite. The garden is terraced with sloping lawns and spectacular views out to First Tower and beyond from Old Beaumont Hill. Mrs Edwards has transformed the area over the last 18 years into the beautiful garden it is today with extensive creative planting and hard landscaping. The garden includes one of the largest Judas trees in the island. Music will be provided by the "Jazz Beans" and Cream Teas will be available to buy, with organic Jersey Clotted Cream donated by The Classic Herd. There will also be a Raffle with some interesting prizes. The Garden will be open from 2pm until 5pm and there will be Park and Ride arrangements signposted nearby. Entrance costs £3 and all proceeds go towards JAYF which provides security and help for young adults aged 16-22 in four homes located in the Island. There is no admission charge for children under 12 and free parking. Dogs cannot be 'accommodated'.

TRAVEL

What is your dream destination?

Carcassonne. It's a medieval town in the south of France steeped in myth and legend. I've wanted to go there since meeting someone at work who used to live there. Then I saw a TV programme on the history and beauty of Carcassonne and my curiosity got the better of me.

What piqued your interest in particular?

I've always felt a connection with the medieval life – lured by the drums, the music, etc. And I find the costumes really fun to wear. Perhaps it was a past life that drew me to Carcassonne?

An interesting theory! So when is a trip to Carcassonne on the cards?

Actually, I was there in April this year. I'd been planning the trip for my birthday since 2012.

Did you go alone?

No, I drove down with Simon, a friend from Plymouth. Our birthdays are on the same day, so we planned to celebrate together.

The other important traveller was Dougal - my little West Highland Terrier. I had to get him a pet passport and vaccinations as well as researching dog-friendly accommodation, so the trip took quite a bit of planning.

Carcassonne is only 7–8 hours' drive from St Malo, but an overnight stop en route is recommended. I also gained confidence with my trusted Sat Nav.

It's definitely not one for the faint-hearted. It sent shivers down my spine. After witnessing the horrors there, I felt like I really needed a glass of wine!

How was the experience traveling with a dog?

No problem at all – Dougal was a little star! The French were very welcoming in all the hotels and restaurants I'd booked.

In Carcassonne, there were loads of dogs walking along the canal tow paths, as well as along the cobbled streets of the citadel as there were no cars. Dougal jogged along behind us, off his lead. He even charmed a pretty French Lhasa Apso – it was all part of the ambiance of this wonderful place.

A highlight for Dougal no doubt - what was yours?

For our birthdays we stayed at the famous 4-star Hotel du Château. On arrival, Champagne on ice, followed by dinner at a beautiful restaurant in the medieval walls. It was fabulous! Dougal came along too, enjoying duck as his special treat.

Were there any other memorable moments of Carcassonne?

We had great fun browsing around all the boutiques selling medieval costumes. We were trying on all the clothes and Simon got to wear a suit of armour.

We also visited the torture museum, showing the various methods of torture used during the Inquisition and French Revolution. It's definitely not one for the faint-hearted. It sent shivers down my spine. After witnessing the horrors there, I felt like I really needed a glass of wine!

I'm not surprised! Did you feel your dream destination lived up to expectations though?

Yes! I'll never forget when we first arrived at Carcassonne ... It was around 9 o'clock in the evening and the medieval walls of the citadel were all lit up by floodlights. It was totally awe-inspiring ... definitely an experience to be revisited in the future!

Highlands Art & Design Students Display their Work

This month the Highlands College School of Art will be hosting an exhibition by its Second Year BTEC students. During their time at the College aspiring artists learn a variety of skills working with a wide range of materials and techniques, such as photography, textiles, print, sculpture and painting.

An important part of the course involves research trips as well as visiting galleries and museums in order to inspire and inform students' projects and develop their skills Students can choose from a variety of disciplines and have access to leading practioners and artists for guidance. They also learn valuable transferable skills such as independent learning, teamwork, problem solving, time management and interview techniques - all important skills as they come to apply for university places or starting work in the creative industries.

This year's exhibition promises to be as exciting as ever and includes everything from sculpture to print, story boards to painting. This exhibition will be the culmination of two years hard work and we would encourage anyone thinking of studying art and art lovers alike to come along and view the work. You can even talk to the students, about their work and their experience at Highlands.

THE PRIVATE VIEW IS ON THE 17TH JUNE FROM 5.30PM-7.30PM. THE EXHIBITION REMAINS OPEN TO THE PUBLIC FROM THE 17TH TILL THE 21ST JUNE 9.30PM - 5 PM. IF YOU WISH TO CONTACT US FOR ANY FURTHER INFORMATION OR QUERIES YOU CAN TELEPHONE 608608 (HIGHLANDS COLLEGE MAIN RECEPTION).

WE CAN'T CONTAIN OURSELVES

We've been asked if we'd like to decorate a container as part of Skipton Open Studios this year between the 17th and 21st June. We'd rather involve you lot and we're therefore going to divide ours up into stripes and get readers and friends to contribute. The container will be winging its way all over the world and look pretty sick if we get it right. EMAIL ART@ GALLERY.JE IF YOU'D LIKE TO GET INVOLVED.

SEASCAPES

Photographer Gina Socrates is to have an exhibition at the Jersey Arts Centre from 24th June to 6th July

Entitled Water's Edge, the exhibition will comprise a series of new images she developed after winning a place in Silvershotz's Folios 2010.

Water's Edge features a series of intimate images examining the varying patterns and textures of the shoreline where land and sea interact with one another.

This mutual manipulation gives rise to a limitless possibility of shapes, textures and patterns. The shoreline, therefore, is an endless subject, a fluid, sinuous border constantly in flux that yields fixed forms when captured on camera, forms which are in infinite supply. The variation in the photographs, such as the differing colour of the sand and textures of the water, comes from the diversity of the natural conditions of the moment the photographs were taken, and was dependent on the weather, the time of day, the height of the tide and the roughness or calmness of the sea. The exhibition will also feature a series of sweeping seascapes/beachscapes. All the images in the exhibition were taken on St. Brelade's Bay.

As a Jersey photographer, Gina Socrates draws inspiration from her island, whether it be its unique landscape, its traditional and contemporary architecture, or its flora. More often than not, she interprets her subjects in an abstract way, often focusing on details and minutiae, which may otherwise pass unnoticed. This causes the photographs to become visual riddles which entice the viewer to try and interpret them, while at the same time maintaining an intrinsic aesthetic quality which can be appreciated in its own right.

Gina Socrates qualified as a fashion designer in London before moving to Jersey. She is an Associate of the Royal Photographic Society and a member of Genuine Jersey. She has been shortlisted for Landscape Photographer of the Year by Take a View in 2008, 2009, 2010 and 2012 and many of her images have qualified for national and international touring exhibitions. With her Water's Edge series, Gina was selected as one of 35 photographers who qualified for 'Folios 2010' leading her to be featured in Silvershotz, the International Journal of Contemporary Photography.

Gina's work can be viewed and purchased from The Harbour Gallery and Morton & Morton www.ginasocrates.com | ginasocrates@yahoo.co.uk

JERSEY OAK

Summer's just around the corner which means soon enough you'll want to invite your loved ones round for a cocktail or five in the garden. But seriously... don't you think it's time you ditched those old garden chairs and bought some suitably sturdy yet effortlessly stylish furniture that'll get them all talking?

A must see for anyone with a love of fine Jersey craftsmanship (which I assume to be everyone...) Jersey Oak pride themselves in producing bespoke handmade furniture for inside and outside the home. The world of oak is totally your oyster; you can design the table, chair, fireplace (the list goes on) of your dreams whilst being absolutely satisfied that you will end up with the highest quality product available on the market. Plus, they're pure Jersey.

Each unique piece is designed and crafted on the island, hewn from huge beams of green oak and will change appearance over several years developing individual characteristics, wearing natural 'shakes' and splits with pride as the timber seasons.

Make a statement, make your garden party visions a reality and make a call to Jersey Oak on 07797 888782

ZOE'S KITCHEN =

Since it's the makeover issue, we think it's apt you check out some fabulous island-made gift ideas so you can patch up any of those pesky relationship problems. Go on, we're all partial to a good bribe once in a while...

It's time you escaped the cliché. Yes, flowers look beautiful, they even smell beautiful but nothing tastes as beautiful as a delectable homemade chocolate fudge brownie. We all know that a way to man's heart is through his stomach (and admittedly, a woman's) so why not check out Zoe Horne's outstanding range of baked treats. Using only the finest quality local ingredients in all of her baked goods ensures that all of Zoe's delights taste just as mouthwateringly scrummy as they look.

Trust that your request will be in the best hands possible, Zoe trained at the Leith's School of Food & Wine (yes, that's a good 'un) as well as cooking and writing for the food pages at Good Housekeeping Magazine (almost as good as Gallery.)

Whether it's to say Thank You, Happy Birthday, I Love You or even I Will Try Harder, these treats will be just ideal. You could even be really cheeky and pretend you've made them. We won't say anything... Promise...

Give her a call on 01534 741 862. Shhh!

Praise the jewellery gods that styles have evolved so much since the days we were confined to choosing from classic silver or gold pieces to compliment an outfit. Praise them even more that we don't have to pay ridiculous amounts for that one statement design! If you've found yourself stuck in a dreaded wardrobe rut and fancy pushing the boat out for a totally unique piece of jewellery to make the statement you're after then check out Christine Witham's embroidered designs.

An experienced Jersey artist with a growing profile, Christine is all about producing intricate, wearable pieces by hand. Each and every item is crafted using a variety of Christine's own techniques, which make her so unique to the jewellery market and even more unique to Jersey.

Gone are the days you find yourself, rather embarrassingly, rocking up to a party wearing the same necklace as that one friend you haven't seen in donkey's years. Christine ensures that no piece is the same and the sheer number of hours she spends producing such intricate delights will show on the night. Working with materials from silk and lace to spangles and beads, you'll find your jewellery does all the talking...

MOVIE MAKEOVERS

置GOOD 置BAD 一& 一 置POINTLESS

WORDS | CHRIS BELL

It can seem nowadays that Hollywood has simply run out of good ideas, and remakes and reboots are ten-a-penny, whether it's American adaptations of foreign films (seemingly produced for the sole reason of doing away with those pesky subtitles) or classic movies given a 21st Century revamp in order to appeal to a younger generation.

In recent years films like Planet of the Apes, Evil Dead, Total Recall and countless cult horror flicks have been given big budget overhauls, and in the next couple of years we'll see the likes of Robocop, Godzilla, Mad Max and reportedly even the masterpiece that is, er, Romancing the Stone, hitting the cinemas. However much we might lament the constant rehashing of old ideas, we can perhaps be reassured that it's not a new phenomenon. Indeed, numerous films have been reworked over the past century of cinema. Some remakes have been good, some have been bad and some of them have been completely pointless. Here, Gallery takes a look at ten of the best and worst.

崖GOOD'UNS

THE FLY (1986)

Arguably director David Cronenberg's finest work, The Fly starred Jeff Goldblum as an eccentric scientist whose experiments with teleportation result in him undergoing a gory metamorphosis into a giant fly. The movie is a cult classic and was one of the most celebrated sci-fi/horrors films of the 1980s, winning an Academy Award for Best Makeup and grossing over $40 million at the US box office, despite the film being a gruesome horror movie by an indie director. The film was, of course, a remake of the 1958 B-movie of the same name, starring Vincent Price. Arguably the best example of a remake that actually surpassed the original.

SCARFACE (1983)

Brian De Palma's 1983 crime drama spawned the cultural icon that is Tony Montana, the Cuban gangster portrayed so memorably by Al Pacino in one of his finest performances. It's a patchy film and far from perfect, with some critics describing it as shallow and clichéd upon its release, but over the years its stock has risen, and it's seen as a seminal film in the gangster genre. It's the movie that spawned a thousand Pacino impressions too: who hasn't at some stage in their life exclaimed 'Say hello to my little friends!'? The original 1932 Scarface is just as celebrated, having launched the career of leading man George Raft, and in 1994 was selected for preservation in the US National Film registry.

CASINOROYALE (2006)

The film that both introduced Daniel Craig to a global audience and reinvigorated a flagging Bond brand; reinventing the Martini-quaffing spy for a cynical 21st Century audience, Casino Royale is regarded as one of the best in the whole Bond series. Its gritty realism, bonecrunching fight scenes, incredible stunts and stunning cinematography make it a far cry from the dark days of the Pierce Brosnan-era Bond movies, but it was technically a remake. Based on Ian Fleming's 1953 novel, a spoof version with a star-studded cast including Peter Sellers, Woody Allen, David Niven and Orson Welles was released to a decidedly lukewarm response in 1967. The late, great film critic Roger Ebert described it as "possibly the most indulgent film ever made." Daniel Craig wins this one then.

HEAT (1995)

Regularly registering near the top of 'Greatest Crime Films of All Time' lists, Michael Mann's action thriller saw Hollywood heavyweights Al Pacino and Robert De Niro share the screen for the first time; the movie equivalent of Lewis vs Tyson, Hatton vs Mayweather, The Rock vs Holk Hogan. It featured one of the most unforgettable cinema shootouts of all time, the famous bank heist scene, as well as an early turn from future Oscar winner Natalie Portman. Heat was in fact a remake, technically, of his earlier madefor-TV movie LA Takedown. Mann had been attempting, unsuccessfully, to get Heat made for a decade and had settled for making a simplified, lower budget television version. After the success of Mann's Last of the Mohicans, however, he was able to get Heat financed and produced, and LA Takedown is forever destined to be seen as Heat's ugly older brother.

WAR OF THE WORLDS (2005)

Steven Spielberg's 2005 update of the seminal alien invasion story is included here partially as it never seems to get the credit it deserves as a movie remake that was well worth everybody's time and effort. Of course there have been many adaptations of HG Wells' original 1898 novel, and its first screen version in 1953 was the biggest sci-fi hit of that year. Spielberg's later revamp was a genuinely scary affair though, and benefitted from the obvious advances in special effects. Its nods to the 9/11 attacks and to the war in Iraq gave it an added gravitas, and it's probably Spielberg's last really great film - and no, I'm not forgotting Lincoln.

≝BAD/POINTLESS

NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET (2010)

It's a scientifically proven fact that everything Michael Bay touches will both so this truth was once again proven with the appalling and utterly pointless reboot of Wes Craven's 80s horror masterpiece. The original was an inventive and original film that explored the potential of the 'plastic reality' effects that were en vogue at the time, with a terrifying yet comically charismatic monster Freddy Krueger and clever references to dark fairy stories such as the German tale Shockheaded Peter. It's a genius piece of horror movie-making. The remake has a bloke with knives on his hands, a completely unnecessary backstory, some stupid stuff about micro naps, and zero charm. It made an $80 million profit though, so if you went to see it, it's your make another rubbish reboot of it.

CHARLIE & THE CHOCOLATE FACTORY (2005)

Tim Burton gave up making good films after 1994's Ed Wood (or, at a push, Sleepy Hollow), but his crack at Roald Dahl's universally loved children's classic just took the biscuit. That it was rubbish was bad enough, that there's already a perfectly fine (well, actually, awesome) movie version in 1971's Willy Wonka & the Chocolate Factory made it even more of a face-palming failure. The unconvincing CGI sets, composited Oompa Loompas and Burton's insistence on making Wonka a total headcase rather than subtly nodding to his underlying darkness, meant the film just failed to work. As for Burton's choice of leading man – Jonny Depp is no Gene Wilder.

KING KONG (2005)

Another 2005 stinker, Peter Jackson's CGI extravaganza brought the iconic giant ape to the silver screen for a third time, after the original 1933 monster movie classic and a 1976 update. Despite a star turn by Andy Serkis, through motion capture, as Kong, the film was long (a whopping three hours and seven minutes) and plodding, yet again demonstrating Jackson's aversion to the cutting room floor. It also seemed that the entire effects budget had gone into creating the admittedly impressive looking ape and the 1930s New York cityscape. Everything else, including tyrannosaurs, stampeding brontosauruses and giant bugs, looked like graphics on a Super Nintendo. The movie grossed $550 million worldwide though, so expect another remake to be announced any day now.

PSYCHO (1998)

On paper, this should have been a success: a recently Oscar-nominated director (for 1997's Good Will Hunting) in Gus Van Sant, plus a cast that included Julianne Moore, Viggo Mortensen and William H. Macy. On screen, however, Van Sant's shotfor-shot remake of the classic Hitchock slasher movie was disastrous. Ultimately an experiment in duplicating the original film rather than any serious attempt to create an updated remake, Psycho is the very epitome of self-indulgence. It 'won' two Razzie awards, for Worst Remake or Sequel and Worst Director, ensuring Van Sant crashed back to earth after the previous year's success of Good Will Hunting.

THE WICKER MAN (2006)

Alarm bells were ringing within the film world as soon as it was announced that the seminal 1973 British horror film was to be given a Hollywood overhaul, and a collective groan was let out with the news that Nicholas Cage (a man who will say 'yes' to literally ANY movie offer) would play the part of the protagonist originally portrayed, beautifully, by Edward Woodward. It was dreadful, pointless, and just weird. There's a bit where Nicholas Cage punches a woman while dressed as a bear. It earned five Golden Raspberry nominations for its troubles, but at least it's so bad that it's at times unintentionally hilarious. And it did give us the unforgettable sight of Nicholas Cage, doing his long, crazed, wild-eyed Nicholas Cage face, exclaiming "Oh no! Not the bees! Not the bees!"

LET'S TALK ABOUT FILM. I LIKE FILMS. MOST PEOPLE LIKE FILMS. IN FACT, IF YOU WERE TO MEET SOMEBODY WHO SAID 'I DON'T REALLY LIKE FILMS', YOU'D PROBABLY TELL THEM TO GO AWAY AND NEVER COME BACK.

The screen has been a bit of a hot topic in Jersey recently, ranging from the homecoming of our very own 'last son of Krypton' Henry Cavill, to the rumours that emerged a few months back of Bergerac making a return. (I've suddenly had an idea for a Bergerac/Superman spinoff).

Needless to say, Jersey is beautiful. Can't you just see your favourite places on the big screen? Think about it, we're a tiny island surrounded by water; tell me that's not the perfect setting for the unexpected appearance of a humungous Lovecraftian horror who ambles about town knocking stuff over, only to be discovered as a misunderstood 'gentle giant' who just wants to pop out some babies without being shot at by helicopters. (Yes, I watched Godzilla last week).

We're living on 45 square miles worth of perfect canvas for a film industry, and I'm not just talking in terms of location. We're armed with such potential in terms of budding writers, filmmakers and actors, as well as an endless supply of local pride and the goldmine that is the tourism industry. The idea of a 'screen commission' has been floating around the States for years, but nothing seems to be taking flight. As we all know from the recent fiasco, anyone can apparently just turn up in Jersey and say 'Can I have quarter of a mil to make a film please?' and it's pretty much cash in hand, no questions asked. To me, this proves there is a Governmental interest in promoting locally made films, but what we lack is formality, meaning that the proper due diligence gets ignored – which can all be helped by the introduction of a proposed screen commission and film fund that allocates the proper expert advice and funding.

For everything that our tourism board does for the island, it still remains untapped in terms of film and television. Yes, we've all seen that 'warmest place in the British Isles' advert, which, to me, is the same as saying 'the cleanest urinal in the public toilet'.

Abrams is bringing Star Wars back to the UK for filming, so what could be better than a killer lightsaber battle atop Corbiere lighthouse? The speed of the tide coming in will only add to the excitement!

John Nettles himself stressed how lucrative a film industry would be for the island, and why would Bergerac lie? Living in England, as an aspiring writer, has allowed me to explore a vast array of opportunities that seem to just spring up all the time. I have to say, I doubt I'd find the same prospects in Jersey - which is a shame, because I know there's an interest, not to mention passion. It's all on you States of Jersey: give us the tools, pave the way for us, and we'll be coming soon to a cinema near you (probably just the Cineworld on the waterfront, actually).

John Nettles himself stressed how lucrative a film industry would be for the Island, and why would Bergerac lie?

We do have lovely hot summer days and often it is like being on holiday somewhere tropical, so why not sell it like that? Let's go all out. And let's not stop there. Let's grab the attention of the likes of Martin Scorsese and Danny Boyle. We all know J. J.

IT'S THE MONTH OF THE PEARL SO WE HEADED TO JERSEY PEARL TO FIND OUT MORE ABOUT THIS MUCH LOVED JERSEY COMPANY.

From humble beginnings in St. John to the hustle and bustle of Oxford street, family run business Jersey Pearl has propelled as high as 30,000 feet. Yes, really, that high. Considering the timeless beauty of the pearl it is no surprise that House of Fraser now feature Jersey Pearl in 24 stores and British Airways are the latest corporation to jump aboard the beautiful Jersey Pearl band wagon.

The airline features the classic pearl string necklace in their on-board catalogue; an unsurprising statistic shows that business men are amongst BA's most popular customers, buying that all important last minute gift for their better halves on the flight home! What would she like? Oh that shiny pearl necklace will do; all women suit pearl necklaces, right? Actually guys, you are right.

With our recent obsession with all things vintage, surely there's no better time to buy

DIAMONDOLOGY HAS LAUNCHED

THEIR NEW SAMPLE LIBRARY

one of Jersey Pearl's classic designs. Plus, you've surely seen Baz Luhrmann's film adaptation of The Great Gatsby? No? Well we think you're seriously missing out. If anything, you have to check out how totally fabulous actress Carey Mulligan looks, pearls, flapper dress and all. We think you could look as über-chic as Carey in Jersey Pearl's timeless 1920s collection.

If you're looking for quirkier designs awardwinning contemporary designer Johanna Dahdah's collection for Jersey Pearl 'Muse' is particularly iconic. Drawing inspiration from the shape, colour and textures in Gustav Klimt's 'The Kiss,' she has created a breathtaking fusion of glorious pearl and statement design.

Despite the heightening success of the company, Jersey Pearl remains very much a grounded family business who are proud of their roots in Jersey. Quality is never compromised; so much so that the team gallivant off to the Far East every year, and meticulously hand selecting the finest pearls on the market. Did you also realise it's the month of the pearl? Well neither did we, but that makes this an even more ideal time to head to your nearest Jersey Pearl - whether that's in de Gruchy's or St. Ouens or on an aeroplane 30,000 feet in the air. Where's a business man when you need one?

REDUX DELUXE

In the world of watch design, it's all about streamlining. Which is why we're so excited about the sleek new redesigned models launched by Cartier and available now at Hettich Jewellers. Here are two to watch...

CARTIER TANK ANGLAISE

Since its design in 1917, the art deco lines of the Tank Anglaise have been seen on all the right wrists, making it the watch of choice for style icons like Jackie O, Princess Diana, Yves Saint Laurent and Andy Warhol – who said: 'I don't wear a Tank watch to tell the time. In fact, I never wind it. I wear a Tank watch because it's the watch to wear'. Ever the reinventors, Cartier have just introduced a brand new two-tone 18-carat rose gold and steel design to their range. Available in three sizes, this covetable watch will add a luxe edge to any outfit, from jeans and a white shirt to a little black dress. Jackie O would have approved...

Cartier Tank Anglaise in steel and rose gold, mid-size £5,469

CARTIER BALLON BLEU

Too square for you? Then meet the stylish new Cartier Ballon Bleu. Shaped like a smooth pebble, you won't be able to stop yourself from stroking its oh là là curves and admiring the flashing blue sapphire nestled inside the crown. It's gloriously glamorous and just begs to be worn - a dress watch you'll want to dress up for.

Cartier Ballon Bleu, steel £3,106 both available from Hettich Jewellers

Since Diamondology was founded 8 years ago they've comissioned hundreds of personalised diamond rings. Director Julia Williams says that 'People love designing their own engagement and wedding rings, but want to feel reassured that when it's but want to feel reassured that when it's finished, they'll love them and it was just as they'd imagined. So exclusively at Diamondology, to celebrate the move to our new Viewing Office, we've created over 200 samples of styles of rings that you can actually try on and see how they look and feel, then choose from or mix and match with complete confidence'. So making your diamond ring absolutely perfect is now much easier. You can see this beautiful collection in their 1st floor town Viewing Office and book an appointment to ensure total privacy and comfort along with their exceptional service.

ETERNITY RINGS

Perfect for marking special occassions, these stunning rings, created in the Aurum workshop are from £850. They are available in all sorts of shapes, colours and sizes including 18ct. white, yellow, rose gold and platinum, they can even be set with diamonds, rubies and sapphires. Just visit their showroom to find out more and give them a try. Remember 'it doesn't have to be expensive it just has to be good'!

As we are all very aware, this season has been a bit slow to get off the ground, so unfortunately my summer inspiration seemed to be flagging a little. This only called for one thing.... I decided to say adios to my personal style, wear a neutral outfit and stroll around St Helier asking a handful of boutiques: 'MAKE ME OVER BABY'.

The brief: To style me from top to toe in an outfit that represents what's hot in their store this season. Here's what

MANNA

April May green sequin top
£325
Maria J Brand jeans
£200
Malene Birger citrus heels
£245

RENAISSANCE

Riani Jacket £335 Maria Grazia Severi beaded top

> £279 Riani green jeans £149

Tom Tom chose this young look, iconic of Manna. The top is just amazing; it was love at first sight. Seriously. The emerald colour and spectacular detail exude a vintage feel, a hot trend right now! The abundance of sequins make it amazing to wear and they'll add a burst of sparkle to your evening. Forget having to scour your jewellry box for a suitable necklace to match, the intricate detailing around the neckline is stunning enough as it is! The dark jeans make the top and vibrant Malene Birger heels a wearable daytime look. The classic heels were an ideal height, enough to elongate my legs but not so high to render them unwearable. An edgy outfit- and I love it!

Lesley at Renaissance dressed me in this elegantly tailored outfit by Riani. The jeans skimmed my ankle perfectly; making them the ideal length for heels or flats! The vibrant green of the jeans and the flash of pink in the jacket makes the outfit a number one choice for summer. You'll be sure to make a fabulously bold statement when out and about with friends on the island! I love the contrasting vibe going on too; the jacket paired with the detailed top by Maria Grazia looks quirky yet sophisticated. A young look but still totally wearable.

I heart Renaissance!

Elizabeth Howell chose this outfit as she wanted me to look young, vibrant and ready for summer. The scarf will be your new favourite statement piece, plus it can be worn in so many different ways. The florescent pink in the scarf and on the bag adds a delightful pop of colour to the outfit and neon is right on trend! Layering the lace hemmed vest and the t-shirt not only adds subtle, eye-catching detail but also makes the outfit ideal for those jacket, adding a grungy vibe to give a quirky not quite so warm Jersey summer days!

To our dismay, we haven't slipped into summer easily this year but this jacket by Just Female is perfect for that awkwardly uncertain crossover from spring to summer. There's really no wonder Paris was so eager to feature the jacket, the waterfall style is really in vogue at the moment and the material felt so luxurious! The stacked rings and bird skull necklace contrast the flowing youthful edge, reminiscent of the rest of Paris' collection. Throw on the gold studded Kris Ana bag and the outfit becomes perfect for those chill out days on the island.

Colette at Nautilus was excited to dress me in this elegant yet delightfully fun ensemble, which fully represents the variety of the boutique's collection. I adored the intricate lace under layer of the top, which made the garment feel so expensive but was an absolute steal at £38. The chunky heel on the patent Unisa shoes had a 70's vibe which gave the tailored Joseph chinos a quirky edge. I wouldn't say I'm necessarily a 'hat person' but I loved this hat by Helen Kaminiski, it's ideally summery and women of all ages can pull it off- hat person or not!

EXTREME celebrity MAKEUNAET WORDS | GRACE RYAN

If there's one thing fashion is addicted to (besides Peruvian gak and tiny dogs) it's the belief in its own power to bestow upon even the dowdiest of us a glamorous Cinderella-style transformation.

You may have a crusty unibrow and thighs like a carrier bag full of porridge, but given the right advice and a Platinum Amex card you'll be a dead ringer for Kate Moss cruising the priory clinic in search of her next love interest. Fill your stomach full of toilet paper, paint the colour back onto your hollow cheeks and you too can aspire to the ultimate in human beauty spindly limbs, protruding ribs and a party wardrobe that makes you resemble a stork caught in a golf umbrella.

Makeovers are big business - lowbrow TV and glossy magazines would implode without uplifting stories about horribly normal people remaking themselves into something that Karl Lagerfeld can look at without being sick. I burn off my afternoon hangovers watching E4 with the curtains drawn, and have witnessed brides, children and even dogs being made fabulous through the unholy alchemy of production assistants and a borrowed wardrobe. True, only an idiot would fall for the fairytale - it's fun to watch but we all know Karen from Bradford will be forced to go back to shopping at Primark as soon as the makeup artists vanish back to Hoxton and leave her with the sartorial equivalent of two rats and a pumpkin with a flat tyre. Almost anybody can look good given enough cash, a stylist and good lighting; take it away and it's back to posting photoshopped selfies on match.com.

What interests me more is the idea of the extreme makeunder - where the beautiful and stylish would be forced to exist like the rest of us, stripped of their personal trainers, support undergarments and regular botox jabs. Give them a few weeks in the harsh light of day and they'd soon look more like redundant dinnerladies from Cardiff or Jeremy Clarkson. Wouldn't that be nice? Read on to discover my essential tips to help those stars fall back down to earth.

Gwyneth Paltrow: QUEEN OF THE TRAILER PARK

She has a macrobiotic diet, a rock-star husband and was somehow voted both 'most beautiful woman' AND 'most hated celebrity' earlier this year. Our Gwinnie manages those achievements through a punishing regime of constant exercise, fun-free eating and Hollywood genes that produce both conventional beauty and insufferable smugness.

Speaking as somebody who laughed when Brad Pitt opened the box in Se7en, I think we'd all like to know what la Paltrow would look like if she swapped Hollywood genes for Wal-mart jeans, and was forced to spend the rest of her days raising Coldplay's kids in a filthy trailer park in Wyoming. Replace a diet of organic tofu bake with deep-fried hotdogs and sixty cigs a day; accentuate the wild meth-eyes with a hair dye bleached in neighbour Shurleen's bathtub and some homemade tattoos, and you've got an image that screams red carpet. Admittedly this is either because kids Trig and Gator spilled Kool-Aid on it or the previous occupant was murdered in a dispute over the last slice of meatloaf.

George Clooney: MANIC STREET PREACHER

He's the dapper gentleman who looks like he was born in a tuxedo, is the life of any A-list party and is forever fending off ladies a third his age who want his equally dapper babies. He can command a sumptuous suit from any designer he chooses, but would he look quite as good if he was one of those people who stands on a box and shouts at people through a megaphone near Oxford Circus? I don't think George would be advertising Rolex if his daytime wardrobe were a filthy polyester three piece and wellington boots, or if his last appearance in Vanity Fair involved him handing out pamphlets about lizard people and 9/11 conspiracies. Then again, he's made premature grey hair a strong, sexy look, so who's to say he couldn't do the same for a greasy combover and a beard with cornflakes stuck to it?

Mad Men: WALFORD EDITION

US TV sensation Mad Men has made its mark on the style scene with its eyecatching vintage wardrobes and impossibly glamorous stars. You're destined for big things when your ensemble features the razor-sharp Jon Hamm, all-American beauty January Jones and curvaceous bombshell Christina Hendricks. These people look fantastic the entire time they're on camera, but would this be the case if they swapped wardrobes with the cast of grim East-London Soap Eastenders?

I doubt Ms. Hendricks would still be on the cover of Vogue if she exchanged her classic look for Pat Butcher's patterned polyester nightmare and candelabra earrings, and January Jones would turn fewer heads if she was done up like Dot Cotton, complete with varicose veins, fag-yellowed fingers and makeup like a vaudeville vampire. As for Jon Hamm, a week after the obligatory affair with Kat Slater he'd be as beige, balding and lifeless as every other man who's been there. Leave it ahhhht, yeah?

Kate Middleton ... MARRIES DOWN

We all know posh girls like nothing more than a bit of rough, so imagine if Kate hadn't traded up to her balding prince charming and had instead got knocked up at seventeen to a spotty layabout from Essex. Katie and Darren's wedding would never have got the rest of us a day off, and sister Pippa's velour tracksuit-clad bottom would be unlikely to upstage a miniskirt bridal gown with eye-popping cleavage courtesy of a shoplifted wonderbra. The groom would opt of the classic outfit of tracksuit and Asbo curfew bracelet; the wedding cake would be bought cheap from Greggs the baker. It brings a tear to my eye just thinking of it.

THE NEW RADO HYPERCHROME COLLECTION

he new Rado HyperChrome collection represents a step forward in design for the Swiss master of materials. Optimum comfort and a streamlined, fluid case construction with specially developed, sleek side inserts, combine to bring a flash of brilliance to even the most discerning of wrists.

A total of 32 different models in the collection with a choice of quartz or automatic movements ensure that the Rado HyperChrome is as versatile as watch lovers' styles and tastes are diverse. The collection's stand out models are super sleek, sporty chronographs with 45mm high-tech ceramic monobloc cases. Ultra-lightweight, seriously scratch-resistant and dangerously desirable, they are available in black, white and platinum-look plasma treated high-tech ceramic. Streamlined and subtle but still elegantly eye-catching, the Rado HyperChrome is the ultimate all day, every occasion timepiece. Whether you usually wear a tracksuit or a business suit, if you're into haute couture or high-street style, there is an ideal watch in the collection for you. Specially designed for ladies, there are smaller date models embellished with diamonds on the bezel or the dial – definitely a girl's best friend.

From blue dials to rose and yellow gold coloured bracelet links, hands and bezels, the Rado HyperChrome collection also offers a daring dash of colour to the matt or metallic backgrounds. The Rado HyperChrome: high-tech materials, ground-breaking technology and good looks come together in equal measure for maximum visual impact.

To celebrate the launch of the RADO Hyperchrome watch, Rivoli Jewellers will be holding an in-store RADO ceramic exhibition & event on Friday 7th and Saturday 8th June. See their Facebook page for more details www.facebook.com/rivolijewellers, email info@rivolijewellers.com or ask in-store

ABOUT RADO

"If we can imagine it, we can make it". Innovative design and high-tech scratch-resistant materials are the essential distinguishing marks of the Rado brand. As a leader in the top-of-the-range market, Rado has become famous throughout the entire world for its research into materials science. It is the use of sapphire, ceramics, and even high-tech diamond that creates the strong, unique character of the Rado watch

Rado's design concepts draw their inspiration from the intrinsic qualities of the materials used. For Rado, form is intimately linked to more intangible values, and the brand is as ever committed to the quest for outstanding new ideas. This philosophy of surpassing oneself and of constantly pushing the boundaries of possibility has been rewarded with numerous international design prizes. Since 1957, Rado's story has been marked by a prodigious number of pioneering innovations. The brand continues to develop new materials and the new technology required to shape them. Hardness and durability remain key material requirements, while practicality and wearer comfort are the focus of Rado design.

MEN: TO PREPARE FOR CHILDREN

1. Go to a local chemist, tip the contents of your wallet onto the counter and tell the pharmacist to help himself 2. Go to the supermarket, arrange to have your salary paid directly to their head office. 3. Go home. Pick up the newspaper and read it for the last time.

WOMEN: TO PREPARE FOR PREGNANCY

1. Put on a dressing gown and stick a beanbag down the front. 2. Leave it there.
3. After 9 months remove 5% of the beans.

TEST 2: KNOWLEDGE

Find a couple who are already parents and berate them about their methods of discipline, lack of patience, appallingly low tolerance levels and how they have allowed their children to run wild.

Suggest ways in which they might improve their child's sleeping habits, toilet training, table manners and overall behaviour.

Enjoy it. It will be the last time in your life that you will have all the answers.

TEST 3: NIGHTS

To discover how the nights will feel:

1. Walk around the living room from 5pm to 10pm carrying a wet bag weighing approximately 4 - 6kg, with a radio turned to static (or some other obnoxious sound) playing loudly.

2. At 10pm, put the bag down, set the alarm for midnight and go to sleep.

3. Get up at 11pm and walk the bag around the living room until 1am.

Set the alarm for 3am.
 As you can't get back to sleep, get up at 2am and make a cup of tea.
 Go to bed at 2.45am.
 Get up again at 3am when the alarm goes off.
 Sing songs in the dark until 4am.
 Put the alarm on for 5am. Get up when it goes off.
 Make breakfast. Keep this up for 5 years. LOOK CHEERFUL.

TEST 4: DRESSING SMALL CHILDREN

Buy a live octopus and a string bag.
 Attempt to put the octopus into the string bag so that no arms hangout. Time Allowed: 5 minutes.

TEST 5: CARS

1. Forget the BMW. Buy a practical 5-door wagon. 2. Buy a chocolate ice cream cone and put it in the glove compartment. Leave it there. 3. Get a coin. Insert it into the CD player. 4. Take a box of chocolate biscuits; mash them into the back seat. 5. Run a garden rake along both sides of the car.

TEST 6: GOING FOR A WALK

a. Wait. b. Go out the front door. c. Come back in again. d. Go out. e. Come back in again. f. Go out again. g. Walk down the front path. h. Walk back up it. i. Walk down it again. j. Walk very slowly down the road for five minutes. k. Stop, inspect minutely and ask at least 6 questions about every piece of used chewing gum, dirty tissue and dead insect along the way. l. Retrace your steps. m. Scream that you have had as much as you can stand until the neighbours come out and stare at you. n. Give up and go back into the house. You are now just about ready to try taking a small child for a walk.

TEST 7: CONVERSATIONS WITH CHILDREN

Repeat everything you say at least 5 times.

TEST 8: FOOD SHOPPING

- 1. Go to the local supermarket. Take with you the nearest thing you can find to a pre-school child - a fully grown goat is excellent. If you intend to have more than one child, take more than one goat.
- 2. Buy your weekly groceries without letting the goat(s) out of your sight.
- 3. Pay for everything the goat eats or destroys. Until you can easily accomplish this, do not even contemplate having children.

TEST 9:

 Learn the names of every character from Peppa Pig, Barney, Teletubbies and Disney. 2. Watch nothing else on television for at least 5 years.

TEST 10: FEEDING A 1 YEAR-OLD

1. Hollow out a melon 2. Make a small hole in the side 3. Suspend the melon from the ceiling and swing it side to side 4. Now get a bowl of soggy cornflakes and attempt to spoon them into the swaying melon while pretending to be an aeroplane. 5. Continue until half the cornflakes are gone. 6. Tip the rest into your lap, making sure that a lot of it falls on the floor.

TEST 11: MESS

1. Smear peanut butter onto the sofa and jam onto the curtains 2. Hide a fish behind the stereo and leave it there all summer. 3. Stick your fingers in the flowerbeds and then rub them on clean walls. Cover the stains with crayon. How does that look? 4. Empty every drawer/cupboard/storage box in your house onto the floor and proceed with step 5. 5. Drag random items from one room to another room and leave them there.

TEST 12: LONG TRIPS WITH TODDLERS

1. Make a recording of someone shouting 'Mummy' repeatedly. Important Notes: No more than a 4 second delay between each Mummy. Include occasional crescendo to the level of a supersonic jet. 2. Play this tape in your car, everywhere you go for the next 4 years. You are now ready to take a long trip with a toddler.

TEST 13: CONVERSATIONS

- 1. Start talking to an adult of your choice.
- 2. Have someone else continually tug on your shirt hem or shirt sleeve while playing the Mummy tape listed above. You are now ready to have a conversation with an adult while there is a child in the room.

TEST 14: GETTING READY FOR WORK

Pick a day on which you have an important meeting. 2. Put on your finest work attire. 3. Take a cup of cream and put 1 cup of lemon juice in it 4. Stir 5. Dump half of it on your nice silk shirt 6. Saturate a towel with the other half of the mixture 7. Attempt to clean your shirt with the same saturated towel 8. Do not change (you have no time). 9. Go directly to work

Gelaires Nail Spa in Voisins completed our beautiful model Charlotte's make-over look with a set of Sculptured Gel Nail Extensions by Dominika Kopacz who is one of the Advanced Nail Technicians at Gelaires. Dominika used a combination of colours called "Jinkie pink" and "Black Liquorice" finished with a special nail art design using mesh and Swarovski Gems.

Dominika commented "Sculptured Gel Nail Extensions are our favourite type of nail extension and we recommend them because they are quite simply the best and most beautiful looking nail extension you can get as they are moulded to fit the client's nail bed and can be created to any length giving not only natural looking but natural feeling nails which are strong yet lightweight (as opposed to the fake looking plastic tips which can look thick, feel heavy, with no sensitivity and feel like having a little "alien" stuck on the end of your fingers)!"

They give an immediate feel good factor and are perfect for Brides as the nails will last through not just the wedding but the honeymoon too or for ladies attending a job interview that want to present a professional image or for ladies who want to stop biting their nails and want to give them a chance to grow under the protection of the Gel. With over 100 colours you'll be spoilt for choice!

YOUNGBLOOD MINERAL COSMETICS

The vast array of makeup choices available today may seem like a blessing; with so many different options, surely we'll find the one perfect product we've been searching for? As we scour the countless beauty aisles testing out each and every product, we realise that perhaps all this choice isn't so fabulous after all. Our skin isn't porcelain or beige, it doesn't fall neatly under a specific skin type and God forbid if we ever want to look natural. Want to know the key to natural and flawless skin? Yes. Really. I have the answer. Stop scouring and sighing and check out Youngblood mineral makeup. As the name suggests, mineral makeup is the most effective makeup for sensitive skin due to its lightweight mineral composition. The extensive range of Youngblood cosmetics are made from nature's finest ingredients, making it worthy competition to the more well known mineral brands. The extensive range of products, from the revitalising minty minerals in the Mist moisturiser to Youngblood's Natural Mineral Foundation ensures that every skin tone and type is catered for whilst effortlessly providing that naturally radiant finish we all deserve. Youngblood is available from The Beauty House, St Mary.

SISLEY

A leading French brand, specialising in luxury cosmetics and boasts one of the best growth rates in the cosmetic and skin care industry, one of our favourite products in this range is the super handy Super Stick Solaire SPF 30 which is ideal as we draw closer to summer. It provides incredibly effective sun protection and moisturises even the most sensitive areas of the face. What's more, the stick applicator makes it really convenient for application on the go. Then there is Sisley's Age Minimising After Sun Care, a complete after-sun and anti-ageing face cream combined using Andiroba oil with Shea butter to repair skin after sun damage and prevents external signs of ageing. They're both going straight on the wish list!

Sisley is available exclusively at Voisins

The lesser known ladies rugby team of the Island of Jersey formed back in 2006, are seen here in their natural habitat, kitted up and ready to play... lesser known than the JRFC men's squad that is!

Well, as this month is the 'Makeover' edition of Gallery, we wanted you to see the ladies team out of their kit! Fear not we didn't go as far as the calendar girls nudie shots. But we did think this issue was a great chance to prove that off the pitch, not all lady rugby players are terrifying forces to be reckoned with and they do, in fact, scrub up rather well.

The 'after' shot (overleaf) was all made possible thanks to the team at De Gruchy's, who dressed and made over all of the girls, thanks to their great range of concessions in both their clothing and beauty departments. We added to this over £100k's worth of beautiful jewellery provided by Jersey Pearl and Diamondology and this resulted in the 17 very happy, not at all scary looking, female rugby players.

Since their humble beginnings, over six years ago, the team have gone from strength to strength and now play in a UK league, National Challenge 1 SE South to be precise and are coached by a fantastic team of players old and new. They train twice a week and play a minimum of 14 fixtures during the season.

They're currently taking a well-earned break ahead of pre-season training starting in a few weeks. If you'd be interested in joining the girls team, or would just like to have a go and train with them, then call Sara on 07797 786508, of course they're proper trendy too and you'll also find them on Facebook and Twitter @rugbyladiesjsy gly Betty taught us that it's not all about appearance. It showed that even a girl who's 'ugly' can succeed in the world of fashion with the right attitude and the right ideas. She still wore braces though. It's true; even if you're already stellar on the inside, you can still hanker after a perfect smile.

Patients starting treatment now should have their new smile in time for Christmas!

BETTY BLUES & PEARLY WHITES

Having straighter, whiter teeth is not only desirable because it makes you look good and feel better about yourself, but it is well documented that those blessed with a beautiful smile are more successful in their careers and relationships. But what about those of us who were not so lucky with the smile gene – if we want straighter teeth how many of us as adults are prepared to put up with the long treatments, the mouth of metal and the associated higher costs that the more traditional route of train track braces can lead us? Especially, if the problem is simply a case of slight over crowding.

The braces are dodgy, the wallpaper is worse.

If you are yearning for straighter teeth in less time with invisible braces then it is definitely worthwhile in considering the Six Month Smile system provided by Jon Sproson of The Cosmetic Dental Group at 9 David Place, St Helier. Jon has had plenty of orthodontic experience from when he worked as a clinical assistant in The Royal Shrewsbury Infirmary and as a result he is the first to admit he was initially rather sceptical about the system, however, having seen the evidence of the results, been trained on the system and having a group of Six Month Smiles raving fans amongst his patients, he is now happily and very enthusiastically, flying the flag in Jersey for Six Month Smiles for patients demanding an alternative option.

Gallery challenged Jon on how teeth can be straightened in only 6 months. 'A Six Month Smile is an orthodontic system with revolutionary combination of proven orthodontic techniques, modern materials, and innovative thought – Six Month Smiles utilises specialised clear braces to gently straighten and align teeth in an average time of just six months. Six Month Smiles has taken the best aspects of braces and modified the treatment and the materials to give adults a commonsense, cosmetic solution that fits your lifestyle'. Jon explains;

Patients whose main concern and priority is the aesthetics of their smile are signing up for treatment because they do not want to undergo longer and more costly treatment. They love the fact that the brace is barely visible and as we offer finance they can start their treatment immediately. Patients starting treatment now should have their new smile in time for Christmas!' Jon adds.

Jonathan Wood who established an orthodontic clinic for adults and children at The Cosmetic Dental Group ten years ago, adds his support; 'We are all about what is best for the patient. It is important that the patient is aware of all the options available as part of their consent process. Should an adult prove unsuitable for Six Month Smiles, Jon happily refers a patient to me for Invisalign or more extensive care that can correct bite problems but without having to extract teeth. It is fantastic that modern dentistry is creating so many options and solutions for our patients. Jonathan adds, 'Of course, we understand this can also be confusing for patients: so we offer a complimentary consultation for all cosmetic enquiries to our practice without any obligation. Worth noting is that we do not expect you to change your regular dentist to access these services.' explains Jonathan.

What is your full name?

"Philippe Maratier"

Where were you born?

"Vendee, France"

What age did you start cooking?

"Quite young! Aged 15!"

Where did you study cooking?

"Catering college in France"

What is your failsafe dish you cook at home for friends and family?

"It depends. I try and always get my hands on good quality local fish."

What you have for your last supper?

"A bottle of wine, preferably cabernet sauvignon, but any would do!" (He's right up our street.)

Philippe Maratier is the Executive Head Chef at the breathtaking restaurant Saffrons at Hotel de France. Philippe is responsible for overseeing the restaurant and ensuring that each and every dish served is as spectacular as the next. With an ever-changing seasonal menu at Saffrons, we think he's pretty awe-inspiring. He began learning to cook at the age of 15, and it has been a whole 15 years since Philippe began demonstrating his astounding culinary skills at Hotel de France. The concept of Saffron's stemmed from a visit to London to develop Gallery (we like the name), a former restaurant at Hotel de France. Whilst in London the development of Gallery progressed to an evolution of an entirely new concept which would totally reinvent Indian cuisine as we know it and give birth to Saffrons. Since it's opening six years ago, the restaurant has been a roaring success amongst locals and tourists alike.

Classically trained in France with a Michelin starred chef, Philippe has worked many different roles, entering and winning numerous competitions notably silver in Senior Chef of the Year on the island. As Philippe's expertise lie very much in the European fine dining domain, the concept of incorporating an Indian twist to local produce was a daunting, yet an incredibly exciting and innovative prospect. We all love our local produce here in Jersey, so what could be more thrilling than sampling stimulating variations of our much loved foods? Jersey royals become delectably spiced Jersey Royals with chargrilled Tikka Boti Scottish Rib of Beef and locally sourced fish becomes Panjim Style Spiced Monkfish, Cockle beurre monte, local crab and aloo tikki. Tempting isn't it?

Philippe expressed his appreciation that the restaurant is very well-received amongst a wide range of islanders, he is constantly innovating and inspiring in the kitchen and remains as eager as ever to create new dishes to arouse our tastebuds. Crocodile has even been a successful dish at Saffrons - as he proudly states "In Saffrons, anything goes!"

With two resident Indian chefs in the restaurant, Philippe finds himself constantly acquiring new tastes and techniques to harmoniously combine with his native European style of cuisine to create wild and wonderful culinary masterpieces.

Open from 7:00pm from Tuesday to Saturday, the restaurant offers a top notch fine dining experience and after meeting Philippe and learning about his exotic fusion menu, there is no wonder people can't get enough of Saffrons (to book, call 614100).

Where did you study cheffing?

Food and Technical College Glasgow.

Have you cooked for any celebrities/famous people?

The Queen at the opening of Parliament, Mel Gibson and Oasis!

What is your failsafe dish you make at home when you have friends coming around?

Thai green curry as it's easy, fast to make and full of flavours.

What would you have for your last supper?

It would have to be a Thai dish, I'm not sure which one as there's too many to choose from.

If money was no object what wine/alcohol would you drink?

I don't drink that much so would opt for The Zillion Dollar Frittata

- Black headed Lobsters, sevruga caviar 6 eggs chive and cream.

What is your personal favourite dish from the menu at Tides restaurant at the Somerville Hotel? Citrus salmon and gravlax with caviar.

What is the ultimate dessert?

Steamed bread and butter pudding with home made vanilla icecream.

SUBSIDISED BUNS

You would think that having a gluten &wheat intolerance would just be, well, crumbs. However, their is a silver lining to being this way inclined if you live in Jersey; the States will subsidise your monthly food bill! Every month you are sent food vouchers which you can exchange for gluten&wheat free food.

Which brings us, and wheat intolerant people, to Crumbs of Comfort. They not only do fantastic baking, they do fantastic baking for people who shouldn't really eat baking. They rise early on site to bake a range of Gluten free& low sodium products for islanders with celiac or wheat intolerances. There's bread, cakes, tarts, pizzas, cupcakes and the very popular savoury pies! For those who don't need to be concerned about the gluten, the rest of their range has 60% less sodium than standard baked breads and cakes, making it a healthier choice for all.

They're online only at the moment although based at Bath Street. Find out more about the gluten free subsidy at www.gov.je

JIMMY'S ICED COFFEE

Last month a lovely couple bounded into Gallery HQ keen to show us their delicious Iced Coffee. Impressed by their fab energy and super product we wanted to share our new found drink addiction with you guys.

The Iced Coffee Story & The Jersey Link:

Jimmy and his lovely wife Soph hail from the West Country but got fed up with UK Winters so decided to hot foot it to Oz for a few months. While they were there, they found awesome ready-to-drink Iced Coffee and drunk it every day. When they came back to the UK, they couldn't find any decent Iced Coffee anywhere, so with the help from Jimmy's sister Sooz, they built Jimmy's Iced Coffee. They have listings with Selfridges, WHSmith and Waitrose in Jersey and have just secured an exclusive distribution deal with Fox Trading for the Channel Islands. Soph's family are from Jersey so they are regular visitors to the island and stay with her aunty and uncle in St. Mary's. They love Jersey, "especially lazy longboard sessions at St. Ouen's and an awesome bit of grub at El Tico afterwards" - commented Jimmy. Pop into Waitrose and grab yourself a carton. Psssst - it is THE best hangover cure!

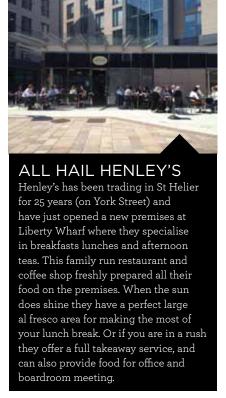

Situated at the rear of the beautifully restored Victorian building that also houses a restaurant, private event rooms and bedrooms, is the perfect place for a drink after work or to while away the evening over a cocktail.

With comfortable seating for over 50, by day there is always space to meet for a coffee, pastry or light snack from the new bar menu which has some wonderful dishes such as Courgette flower fritters with tomato chilli relish (£5.50), Italian style fried squid (£6.50), Mixed beetroot salad with goats cheese, watercress and capers

(£5.50) or a selection of Spanish cured meat, chicken liver parfait and cornichons (£12.95). These sharing plates make an ideal quick lunch for two or more and it's easy to be in and out in under an hour for less than £13.00 including your drink.

By night the large airy space transforms into a chic urban bar with mood lighting and music. There is an original period parquet wood flooring and stunning modern wall coverings, the large space is dominated by a magnificent traditional French pewter bar from which two five metre high trees sprout out of the bar towards the vaulted ceiling.

Regulars' favourite cocktails include Negroni made from Sipsmith Gin, Campari and Martini Rosso or an Old Fashioned with Makers Mark bourbon, Peychaud's, Angostura bitters and Cointreau. The Banjo's mixologists also pride themselves on making a perfect Mojito from aged Havana, fresh mint leaves and lime juice and beautiful Cosmopolitans with Absolut Original, cranberry, lime juice, Triple Sec and elderflower syrup. Or you could ask them to mix an original one just for you. Open 7 nights a week. See you there!

Les Landes COTTAGE

St John really takes it back to the old school in terms of an old world Jersey landscape... Chocolate box cottages and quirky granite farm houses along winding green lanes and farmland make for an idyllic rural setting.

Les Landes Cottage sits proudly amongst this backdrop of countryside in the North of the island, with views out over the rugged coast and beyond to France. The only thing between Les Landes Cottage and the spectacular view is green pasture as far as the eye can see.

The word cottage conjures up the image of a quaint little house; Les Landes Cottage is anything but little - with 5,500 square feet of space, it's a gargantuan property indeed. The clever thing about this stunning property is the balance between country style and modern living... The frontage is typical of a granite farm style property, beautiful Jersey granite and a large car pool and gated entrance blending in perfectly with the countryside setting. The interior however, is polar-opposite, with lots of glass and clean lines, tiled floors and high ceilings as well as the prerequisite state of the art contemporary technology, enabling sound and light controls throughout the house. Les Landes Cottage is finished to the highest specification. The experienced developer

66

The swimming pool boasts an integrated cover system and jets for those inclined to go against the grain, i.e use the pool for serious exercise as opposed to a mere dip has considered every detail ensuring this detached two-generation property caters for every wish. From the technology, to the décor, the low maintenance and the proportions, Les Landes Cottage is a property that ticks all the boxes.

As you walk in to the reception the light floods in from everywhere. Through the reception and into the large downstairs living area, patio doors lead out onto the landscaped back garden and over the fields beyond. The spacious living area has one section ideal for sofa, TV and comfort beside the fire and another section perfect for dining, beside the adjoining kitchen.

From the living area, through a door into what was expected to be a storage space was in fact a beautiful indoor-swimming pool complex, complete with sauna. The swimming pool boasts an integrated cover system and jets for those inclined to go against the grain, i.e use the pool for serious exercise as opposed to a mere dip.

Throughout downstairs, the under floor heating is covered by large contemporary floor tiles, exaggerating the already impressive amount of space. Leading through from the downstairs living area to the large Hacker kitchen, light again pours in through over sized windows and patio doors. The kitchen is, as expected, fitted with all mod cons, including two ovens, coffee maker, dishwasher etc, integrated in bright white units.

This kitchen gives an air of space without losing the identity of being the heart of the home - again, the balance between contemporary and charm is perfect. This is the sort of kitchen you'd expect to find in a trendy home design magazine... A large utility room and reasonably sized study/ playroom are situated next to the kitchen, with access to the double garage. Upstairs is the self contained one bedroom unit, beautifully finished with a fabulous use of space and natural light. Aside from the bedroom, there is a small room which the developer confirmed would fit a small bed aside from that, this room would be ideal as an office, or... walk-in wardrobe perhaps?

There is ample space in the kitchen for a second dining space, a little more casual outside of the living area (think breakfast with the kids, or cups of tea with friends as they drop in) and another stunning bespoke glass and oak staircase leads up to a mezzanine room fitted for a projected cinema screen. This upstairs space would be ideal for the kids; a den/play area so to speak... Although this space on the second floor would also lend itself rather well to a library of sorts or a more relaxed living area – freeing up the downstairs living space for something a little more formal. Large windows allow for incredible views from the mezzanine and across fields to the sea and, on a clear day, the French coast.

Throughout upstairs, more great use of space, more light, and more of those incredible views... Large bedrooms are dotted along the hallway, each with their own bathrooms/wet rooms and plenty of storage and pristine fitted wardrobes. Again, perfect proportions and uber-cool finish and attention to detail. The master bedroom on this floor is a delight... Large and airy with a small private hallway leading past a large dressing room, the bedroom has high ceilings and a partitioned bathroom/wet room fit for a king and queen. LED lighting sets the mood; this master bedroom has a distinct air of modern romance about it...

Stairs lead up to the third floor where two further bedrooms can be found, both en suite... Although these two bedrooms are the smallest of the extra rooms, their views are unsurpassed.

The gardens and exterior of Les Landes Cottage are of very low maintenance, with coloured render covering the walls out back and hard wood used for all the necessary features outside. The garden is manicured, with small beds needing very little work at all... Something of a suntrap, facing south-west, the garden would be the perfect place for summer time barbeques and evening drinks – with the swimming pool set to one side, the kids splashing about would be of little consequence to the peace and tranquility that Les Landes Cottage affords.

Les Landes Cottage is ready to walk in, unpack and move straight in to - the perfect base for a family who enjoy the countryside, rambling walks and the peace and quiet of rural living. Only a short distance to village shops and amenities, Les Landes Cottage is ideally situated and its proud position over fields and pasture makes it an impressive property indeed.

Jargon Buster words: Sharon Therin | Collas Crill

You have saved for years and are now ready to buy your first home. But – how do you fight your way through the legal jargon? Sharon Therin, Collas Crill property expert gives her handy definitions here.

Freehold generally refers to houses and means that when you purchase the house, you also purchase the land below it and the sky above it. It's all yours!

Share transfer refers to an apartment within a house or block owned by a limited liability company. You purchase a block of shares in that company which gives you the right to occupy a specific apartment and also an interest in the other areas of the property which are owned in common with the other shareholders e.g. gardens and hallways.

Flying freehold also refers to an apartment with a house or block of apartments. In this case an association of coowners is created with each co-owner having the right to occupy a specific apartment and having an interest in the common areas of the development with the other co-owners.

Service charge is a monthly or quarterly fee levied on shareholders or co-owners to cover their proportion of the cost of the insurance, upkeep maintenance and repair of the common parts of the share transfer or flying freehold properties. Be sure to understand these costs when you are working out your monthly budgets.

Sinking fund is a form of savings account put in place by the shareholders or co-owners which is designed to cover more costly expenditure which will arise in the future – e.g. painting the exterior of the property. A small amount from the service charge is automatically diverted to the sinking fund each month or quarter to save up for those larger expenses.

Rates are divided into Foncier and Occupiers. The amount is set each year by the Parish usually during the summer and then bills are sent out. The Foncier rate is paid by the owner of a freehold property (whether an individual or limited liability company) and the Occupiers rate is paid by the occupier of a property whether it be freehold, flying freehold or share transfer.

FROM FASHION TO FURNITURE, THE LATEST TREND OF UP-CYCLING HAS HIT THE WORLD BY STORM. WITH MANKIND BECOMING EVER-SO ENVIRONMENTALLY AWARE, THERE CAN'T BE A BETTER TIME FOR RECYCLING AND REUSING TO BECOME A TREND IN VOGUE.

Plus, with the shadow of recession looming over our heads, we're all prepared to get up and get creative for the sake of saving some hard earned cash! The benefits of up-cycling are endless, with fuller pockets and personalised belongings, you'd be crazy to not want to get clued up. We visited the immensely talented Ciaran Malloy to discuss his experiences within the business of upholstery, his work ethic and a lip shaped sofa. Yes. A lip shaped sofa.

Located on the outskirts of town on Great Union Rd. in a humble, jam-packed workshop, you can tell that Ciaran isn't interested in making his business look flashy; but who really cares? The workshop is a jumble of wild and wonderful materials, tools, sewing machines and an overwhelming vibe that the customer's product is Ciaran's absolute priority. If you're like us here at Gallery, we're all about making lists to ensure that everything gets done to the deadline, as difficult as it often is... There's no wonder Ciaran was hard at work until the moment we arrived, his to-do list on the whiteboard pinned to the wall seemed fruitfully endless! Ciaran tells us that he largely relies on recommendations and with 17 years in the business and, with an endless to-do list proudly hung on his wall, we're in no doubt they come in thick and fast. With requests from London to Spain, he's definitely doing something right!

For a guy who "stumbled" into the business at the age of 16, we think Ciaran is absolutely awe-inspiring. Working as an apprentice for 3 local upholsterers prior to starting his business provided him with the sturdy foundations to his extensive skill range. Whilst snapping some photos of him hard at work, Ciaran humorously pointed out; "it's not just women that can sew!" And oh boy, can he sew. In fact, his skill range is so extensive that he and colleague Robert Cummings can work with absolutely any product with fabric on. Antique furniture? Yep. Cars? Done. Boats? Easy work. Lip shaped sofa? Possibly one of the weirdest requests, but Ciaran has done it. He even managed to totally redesign the interior of a pool house to become a Moroccan style tent, upholstering the ceiling and walls with luxurious fabrics like suede and silk. Perhaps a bit counter-productive for a room you're going to be soaking wet in, but whatever floats your boat! "We're never scared of a job!" says Ciaran. Too right you're not!

With the up-cycling trend becoming increasingly popular, Ciaran has noticed that it isn't just old ladies with old furniture visiting his workshop anymore. The age range of his clientele is expanding and the fabrics people approach him with are becoming much more 'out there.' Surely this has to be a pleasant change from the more traditional upholstery businesses. Plus, with the amount of money some customers are willing to spend on fabrics means more leftover material and more scatter cushions for Ciaran's home (we're well jel.) "I've got more cushions than anyone could possibly need!" Well Ciaran, we're always partial to a good cushion or two, you know where we are.

ASK THE EXPERT

Since it is our MakeOver edition we were lucky enough to get Jo McLinton, Customer Service Administrator at CP Sunblinds + Curtains to give some fantastic tips on how to give your room a make over without blowing the budget.

SOFT FURNISHINGS & FURNITURE

We have a great fabric collection in our showroom, and it is really easy to use our upholstery service to update and recycle furniture instead of buying new, this allows you to get creative and bring your own ideas to life as well as giving a new life to an old piece of furniture. A really easy way to make a high impact difference to a room is to add new curtains or roman blinds; this can introduce colourful and textural accents, whilst also helping to insulate your home so you get the bonus of energy savings too! I'm a cushion fiend and i'm forever mixing things up by adding new cushions to a room, if you choose carefully they can be the element that really ties a 'look' of a room together and of course it is a super cost effective way of giving a room a new look and feel.

Wall papering one wall with a textured wallpaper adds a nice feature and focal point. This is great for even little rooms as it can also bring the sense of depth to a small space. You can also use this technique to help to define distinct areas within a room. It is really easy and quick, you can even do it yourself. Alternatively hanging a piece of light weight fabric can look amazing, and if one of your walls has been damaged it can cover those imperfections!

PLANTATION SHUTTERS

Any home makeover can benefit from adding an attractive feature such as plantation shutters as an alternative to blinds. Our shutters are made to measure and convey the highest levels of quality and style. Whether they are naturally stained or custom painted in a colour of your choice, our shutters can immediately transform any room adding intrigue, style and function.

BRINGING THE OUTSIDE IN

A brilliant way to make more of a room, is to actually make more of it! If the room has access to the outside then a simple elegant glass and aluminium patio roof added to the side of your home will let you enjoy the outside much more as you are protected from drizzle and wind, and the glass makes the most of the warmth from the sun even on a cloudy day. You can add additional vertical glass elements for extra weather protection and it comes in a wide range of frame colours, giving you a welcome bit of extra space that will suit your home.

New Look for the JSCCA

The Jersey Society for Chartered and Certified Accountants (JSCCA) has announced a new look Executive Committee to support its members and represent the accountancy profession in Jersey.

Following its recent Annual General Meeting, Andrew Quinn has been appointed President of the JSCCA with Clare Treharne supporting him as Vice President, both holding their new posts for the next two years.

The JSCCA has a membership of 650 individual members and liaises regularly with the Jersey Financial Services Commission and Government on matters relating to the accounting profession in Jersey. It also organises regular CPD events for the accounting profession in Jersey. First established in 1974, its membership extends to members of Chartered, Certified and other recognised accountancy bodies and students.

Andrew Quinn, the newly appointed President, is an Executive Director at KPMG Channel Islands Limited with over 15 years' experience providing audit and assurance services to businesses and structures operating in the alternative investment fund industry. A long standing figure within the industry, he has also undertaken secondment work within the States of Jersey and is the media spokesman in Jersey for ACCA, the global body of Chartered Certified accountants.

The JSCCA's new Vice-President, Clare Treharne, is Head of Audit, Accounting and Outsourcing at BDO Limited. Clare has 15 years of experience advising local and international clients spanning the financial services, real estate, commercial and public sectors. Also sitting on the new committee are Chris Matthews (Honorary Treasurer), Matt Ryan (Technical Chair), Jane Richardson (Legislation Chair), Paul Woodman (Tax Chair), Chris Stuart (Training Chair), Bob Henkhuzens, Aynslie Le Brun and Helen Holmes. Caroline Harrington remains Secretary.

Aztec appoints a CRO

The Aztec Group is delighted to announce they have recently promoted Rylee Muddle, Senior Financial Reporting Manager, to their first Chief Risk Officer (CRO).

Rylee's role as Chief Risk Officer will focus on providing overall leadership, vision and direction for enterprise wide risk management with the aim of leading the Aztec Group's risk management function in the ever changing regulatory environment. Rylee is a certified chartered accountant and has twelve years' experience in financial services. His experience includes banking, life insurance and private equity, having worked for UBS Capital in the UK, Ernst & Young in New Zealand and for the Suncorp Group across both New Zealand and Australia before joining the Aztec Group.

Steff adds youth to SKAL

DOLAN Hotels' sales and marketing manager has become the youngest ever council member of the tourism and hospitality industry club, Skal International Jersey.

Stef Paddock, 24, said she joined the club because she thought it would be a great way to meet and network with people in the island's hotel and tourism industry. She also wants to encourage other young people in the industry to join the club and attend the various events it organises.

It is wonderful to be the youngest ever council member for Skal International Jersey as it shows the club is very much in a time of change and it is exciting in terms of where it is going,' said Miss Paddock.

The club is also shedding its former image of being a predominantly male organisation. While there are still more male members, president, Martha Bernstein, said that the council is now more evenly balanced in terms of men and women.

Jon Moulton Appointed CISX Chairman

The Board of the Exchange is very pleased to announce the appointment of Jon Moulton as Director and Chairman of the Channel Islands Stock Exchange (CISX). He takes over from interim Chairman, Advocate Graham Hall, who remains on the Board and will temporarily assist to ensure an effective handover.

Hospitality wins at the IOD Awards

GRAND Jersey has continued its winning ways after general manager Eamonn Elliott was named the Institute of Directors' 2013 Young Director of the Year.

Mr Elliott, who has overseen the hotel receive a number of accolades over the last year, said he was thrilled to be given the title. 'I am over the moon to win such a prestigious award. The IoD is such a brilliant organisation and so to be recognised by them is something I am very proud of,' he said. His win follows a number of other notable successes for the hotel. Last year, Grand Jersey's head chef Richard Allen was named Chef of the Year in the Hotel Cateys Awards and his Michelin-starred fine dining restaurant, Tassili, was entered in the 2013 Good Food Guide - a first for the hotel. He was also recognised in the prestigious Debrett's 2012 People of Today list.

Andrew Shrimpton: Medium Sized business director of the year

Andrew Shrimpton, director at Dolan Hotels, has been named the Institute of Directors' 2013 Director of the Year in the medium sized organisation category.

Mr Shrimpton has spent 15 years with Dolan Hotels, overseeing the group's three hotels and restaurant, the Merchant House Brasserie at the Museum. During his 13 years as a director with the business, Mr Shrimpton has led the development of the hotels to their four-star status. Mr Shrimpton continued: 'It is such an honour to be recognised for the hard work that we have put in throughout the years. The award is testament to the dedication of our exceptional staff as without them the business wouldn't be the success it is today. Winning this award is an achievement for the whole team and I want to thank them for their commitment and hard work.'

Seven directors from Jersey were recognised for their outstanding achievements and leadership qualities at the IoD 2013 Director of the Year Awards on Friday 3rd May. They were chosen from a shortlist of 22 senior professionals and directors who were selected more than 50 individuals who were nominated. The winners were;

Legal promotions at Ogier

Ogier has announced the promotion of four of its senior lawyers. Emelita Robbins and Edward Scott have been promoted to Managing Associates and Elaine Kelly and Shaun Maloney have been promoted to Senior Associates.

Matthew Swan, Managing Partner of Ogier in Jersey, said "Progression to the roles of Managing and Senior Associate is a real achievement. The promotion of Emelita, Edward, Elaine and Shaun is a reflection of their technical expertise as well as their client service focussed approach and emphasises the value and importance Ogier puts on employing the very best people."

Emelita Robbins is a Managing Associate in the Litigation group. She joined Ogier in 2012 having previously been a Senior Associate in London at Herbert Smith Free-hills, where she specialised in complex high value commercial litigation and arbitration and has dealt with disputes across a wide range of industry sectors.

Edward Scott is a Managing Associate in the Business and Trust Law Group. He advises on a broad range of banking and corporate matters. Edward qualified as a Solicitor at Dentons and worked at Linklaters in London. He spent two years at Ogier in Guernsey before returning to his native Jersey in 2011.

Elaine Kelly is a Senior Associate in Ogier's Business and Trust Law Group. She has experience advising on a wide range of corporate and commercial and banking transactions, regularly acting for banking institutions on significant lending and security packages. Elaine joined Ogier on a training contract and was called to the Jersey Bar as an Advocate of the Royal Court in 2012.

Shaun Maloney is a Senior Associate in Ogier Jersey's Litigation Group. He was admitted as a Barrister and Solicitor in New Zealand in 2007 and worked for a leading litigation firm in New Zealand before joining Ogier.

Foreshore Create a New Professional Services Team

Foreshore has announced the creation of a new Professional Services team, who will be responsible for strategic client engagement.

Based in Jersey and the Cayman Islands, this new team will be headed up by Steve Shellswell. A valued member of Foreshore for almost 2 years, Steve has extensive experience building networks and enhanced solution services. He also has strong knowledge of cloud technologies and assisting clients to utilise managed service provisions for improved, more cost-effective functionality. You know what that means right?

Mark Jarvis, who recently joined Foreshore as a Senior Consultant, will work alongside Steve to provide strategic consultancy. Mark has a strong background in IT at every level, from implementing technical solutions to project management.

Ryan Prudent, who has also recently joined Foreshore, will be based in Foreshore's regional office in the Cayman Islands, where he will be responsible for providing professional services throughout the Caribbean region. Ryan has broad range of experience from storage and data management to networking and security analysis.

Peter and a big white wall

GOLD! Peter is CFO

Peter Wright has been made CFO of Goldmoney. Peter joined the company's head office in Jersey six years ago as Financial Controller, before being promoted to Finance Director in 2008.

Chief Executive Officer Geoff Turk said Mr Wright's promotion is excellent news for GoldMoney: 'Pete has proved himself to be a competent and insightful financial manager, helping to guide GoldMoney through a time of rapid expansion and global diversification. I am delighted that he will now consolidate his position with us as we continue our strategic development.' Prior to joining GoldMoney.com Mr Wright worked as an Auditor and Financial controller across various industries in the UK having qualified as a certified accountant. He moved to Jersey in 2002, originally working for the Guiton Group and then Mourant (Private Wealth) before joining GoldMoney.

Mr Wright is a keen runner in his spare time, and was sponsored earlier this year by GoldMoney to run the toughest foot race on earth - the Marathon Des Sables. He raised over £8,500 for local charities during training and in sponsorship for the race. Mr Wright is now working on a training schedule to swim the Channel.

Dropped in the Ocean

Ellen de Jager is the latest recruit to the strong kitchen brigade at The Atlantic Hotel's Ocean Restaurant. Twenty-seven year old Ellen joins the team direct from another Michelin-starred, 4 AA Rosette establishment, the Burlington Restaurant at The Devonshire in the Yorkshire Dales.

Prior to this Ellen held the position of Pastry Chef at Lancashire's Northcote Manor, which also holds one Michelin star and 4 AA rosettes. One might say that a love of food is in Ellen's blood having grown up on a family farm in South Africa surrounded by amazing tropical produce such as bananas, avocados and mangos.

Ellen says that had she not been a chef she would probably have become an artist. Another outlet for her creativity is photography, having originally become interested in the subject a couple of years ago Ellen now boasts an impressive portfolio of food photography. Her talent for photography also has a positive impact in her work, every time a new dish is created it is photographed and a detailed description is written up for the restaurant staff!

Richard Gaudin

Lekscom strengthen

Local IT communications specialists Lekscom are delighted to announce the appointments of Richard Gaudin as Commercial Director. Richard Gaudin joins Lekscom as Commercial Director with 15 years of strategic sales, business development and technology experience. Having started his career in a technical role with Coutts Bank, Richard has since worked in senior commercial roles in technology and telecommunications, most recently at JT where as part of the senior management team he ran the Enterprise sales function and took responsibility for global business development. "Lekscom is an organisation that has developed in the Channel Islands to deliver service to its clients globally. This growth is as a result of its focus as a specialist in communications and an unwavering commitment to its international enterprise clients." said Mr Gaudin. "With Jersey promoting itself more and more as a centre for technology, this communications expertise will be essential"

At Optimus we pride ourselves on a positive outlook and, when it comes to helping you and your career, we'd like to share that approach. We are a boutique recruitment firm specialising in the placement of ambitious individuals within the offshore finance industry. All our senior consultants have extensive professional experience within our key sectors and would be delighted to discuss exciting new opportunities with you.

SO, TELL US WHAT INSPIRED YOU TO GET THIS OFF THE GROUND?

It gradually just happened, I was working from home in the evenings alongside my day job at Jersey Telecom. I just got busier and busier with the therapy work, my clients were telling their friends and my client database grew. Something had to give, so I decided to go for it. I have always had a passion for beauty therapy and a great interest in the skin and how it works. I studied and researched cosmetics in particular ingredients in cosmetics and skin care products and their impact on the skin. I then came across a product called Pevonia, it was exactly what I was looking for 100% Natural, 100% Organic and made with medical/food grade blending equipment. I have been using this product line on my clients for 9 years now and can positively say it is the best skin care range I have come across and I have successfully treated Acne, Rosacea and eczema along with the every day ageing issues.

WHAT DID YOU DO PRIOR TO STARTING THIS BUSINESS?

I helped set up the beauty salon at Club Carrefour when it first opened, this was my first job after I qualified in beauty. It was a fantastic experience and allowed me to put all I had learnt into practice. I then travelled and worked in a wonderful beauty salon in Melbourne Australia where I learnt to use hot wax.

DID THAT TEACH YOU ANY LESSONS THAT HELPED YOU SUCCEED?

Intimate waxing with hot wax. Learning this skill in Australia has been immense as it was not something that was available in Jersey 9 years ago. My clients could not believe how much more comfortable it was than waxing with paper strips that stick to the skin. Down there? ouch!

WHAT'S THE HARDEST LESSON YOU'VE LEARNT SINCE STARTING THE BUSINESS?

It has to be the bookwork, compliance and accounting. Trying to have a good understanding of it all and fit it in on top of your main work. Learning to let go and give other people responsibility, I am a control freak!

ANY FUNNY STORIES THAT YOU HAVE ABOUT THE BUSINESS STARTING OUT?!

Recently, I went on a 'hot waxing' training course in London to learn how to use our new Lycon wax. During the practical session, I span around with a spatula full of wax in my hand just as the tutor was bending down to pick something up off of the bottom shelf of my trolley. She stood up straight into my spatula full of wax! The whole class gasped as she stood there with wax spatula stuck to the top of her head, in her pristine hair! It looked rather shocking! In the morning theory session, she had told us how we could use the waxing solvent to get wax out of hair – Full of apologies; I said that at least I had given her the chance to demonstrate how it worked!

WHAT ARE YOUR PLANS FOR THE FUTURE?

That's a surprise .. stay tuned!

WHAT ADVICE WOULD YOU GIVE TO WOULD-BE ENTREPRENEURS?

As long as you have the work ethic, passion and drive go for it. It is extremely hard work and you never switch off but at the same time you can create something wonderful for people to enjoy and help others in whatever line of work you are in. It is immensely rewarding.

ABOUT THE BUSINESS

The Beauty House has recently expanded in its rural location in St Mary. It is a small private boutique salon offering a very personal service to an extremely high standard. Proprietor Sharon Coote has worked single handedly for 9 years prior to gaining planning permission to change her residence into a business. Now housing two therapy rooms and a stunning reception area with hand made furniture, comfortable seating and a Nespresso machine, you won't want to leave. Specializing in skin care, Intimate hot waxing and semi permanent make up Sharon uses only the finest products chosen for their effectiveness and quality and delivering the best possible results.

A clean desk is a sign of a clean mind. Or an organised wife...

ith flexible monthly leases available and a choice of spacious offices at competitive rates, Bourne House has become the new base for recruitment guru James Caunt. With 18 years of experience within various sectors of the financial service industry, James Caunt Recruitment "provides the best possible professional service you could expect as a candidate and a client." We went along to view the modern offices at Bourne House to talk to James about his business, his desk and what makes him tick.

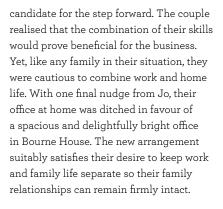

It all began two years ago. With a child on the way, the move into the recruitment sector was very much a lifestyle choice for James and his family. As we're all too aware, time is precious, so James began working part time so he could spend more of that cherished valuable time with his son. Despite the fewer working hours, his business has rocketed from strength to strength; and in the words of the A Team's John 'Hannibal' Smith, 'we love it when a plan comes together!' Two years on, James has moved out of his homemade office and, beaming smile and all, has settled fabulously into Bourne House. He's only been there four days and James has even welcomed a brand-coloured plant onto his spacious windowsill (courtesy of his wife, of course.) With the unfortunate state of the economy affecting the spending of invaluable small businesses such as James Caunt Recruitment, the starting price of £395 per month makes Bourne House an ideal choice for start-ups. There's really no wonder James (and his plant) have settled into Bourne House so well.

With business becoming an increasing success, James knew that expansion was on the cards. With ten years of experience in HR, James' wife Jo was the perfect

James' desk is very minimalistic and also provides that all important distinction between work and family life. Although it's only four days in, he envisions it to be even more minimalistic. For James, a messy desk equals a messy mind; and for business, what could be worse? "I like to keep things simple. I look at my business and what I need, a phone and a computer." We like his thinking. "My wife bought the pen holders, soon even they'll be gone!" He's taking minimal to the extreme, but it seems to be working just fine. Here at Gallery, surrounded by countless magazines and coffee cups, we're thinking it's about time to ditch the clutter!

Whilst it's only a stones throw away from town, the location of Bourne House allows James to keep his business discreet and confidential. Bourne House is perfect for James, as he says "success has everything to do with the satisfaction that comes from introducing quality candidates to roles that meet their aspirations." The neighbourly, yet private, arrangement of the suites allows for businesses like James Caunt Recruitment to flourish as well as opening up the opportunity for businesses to network.

Want to say au revoir to that lonely home office and bonjour to a spacious, productive work office in Bourne House? Contact Palladium group on 01534 888554.

Jersey Enterprise Awards: Shortlisted finalists announced.

The annual Enterprise Awards has attracted a record number of entries across a diverse range of market sectors with 90 submissions being received online by the team at Jersey Business Ltd.

Each submission was reviewed by a judging panel headed up by the category sponsor representative and a list of finalists has been chosen to go forward for interview. A winner will then be chosen and announced on the night of the awards which this year take place on Friday 7th June 2013 at Fort Regent.

Commenting on the high level of interest, Andy Cook Chief Executive at Jersey Business said, "We introduced some new categories and made a number of changes to the submission process in order to make it easier for companies of all sizes to enter. The Island's business community has once again risen to the challenge to demonstrate that despite a challenging economic climate, entrepreneurial spirit exists across all market sectors."

Tickets are still available for the event and tables or tickets may be reserved by contacting Christine Holmes on 07797 725019 or by emailing cholmes@profilepm.com

Delta: Boom
Delta cement their position as leaders in the local events industry with a £100k investment in new state-of-the-art equipment

Local technical production and event management company Delta Production Services have this month taken the latest step in their continued development programme with an investment of £100k in a cutting edge line array PA system for use at events across the Channel Islands and UK. The capacity of the new audio system means that it can be used for corporate conferences and awards ceremonies, through to a range of music events.

The acquisition of the advanced PA system is the latest step in the evolution of this local business, which was established in 1994.

Carey Olsen advises Silverfleet Capital on £50 million Ipes buyout

Carey Olsen has provided Channel Islands-specific corporate and regulatory advice to Silverfleet Capital in its £50 million buyout of leading fund administration and private equity specialists, Ipes, from RJD Partners.

The firm drew on its group expertise for the buyout fielding a pan-Channel Islands legal team led by partners Tom Carey in Guernsey and Guy Coltman in Jersey with support from associates John Scanlan and David Taylor. The team established the Guernsey acquisition structure, carried out due diligence and advised on the competition law and regulatory issues that were associated with the acquisition. Silverfleet Capital is a global private equity firm specialising in mid-market buyouts. It has a reputation for "buy to build" investments and plans to develop Ipes through organic growth and acquisition with an emphasis on international expansion. The acquisition is subject to regulatory clearance.

Ipes is one of Europe's leading providers of fund administration and outsourcing services to the closed-ended asset class with a particular specialism in private equity. Founded in Guernsey in 1998, the business employs 130 staff and administers in excess of $50 billion in assets from its offices in Guernsey, Jersey, London and Luxembourg.

This month we threw our intrepid intern Rachael Sprague in at the deep end to test out surfing and paddleboarding. Here's what she had to say;

GET ON BOARD

ere on Jersey we're blessed with some of the most picturesque beaches in the UK, some of the most awesome waves (probably,) and some of the best weather in Europe (okay, that one isn't strictly true.)

Surf's up

Minor exaggerations aside, why haven't you been surfing with Laneez yet? Located slap bang next to to El Tico in St. Ouens, it is the ideal spot to learn to surf if you're partial to a fresh sandwich and coffee too. However, as with any form of exercise, I wouldn't advise eating exactly prior to surfing, it's not all plain sailing (pun intended.)

My bravest and possibly the wackiest of my friends Charlotte and I were greeted by engaging Surf Instructor and Welshman Daniel Harris (Dan) at the Laneez shop who briefed us about what our lesson would entail. Despite the mediocre May weather and prospect of turning into ice cubes, he made us suitably giddy about what was to expect. Thankfully Laneez provides wetsuits and shoes for those without, also, being the insecure women that we are, it was a welcome surprise to see some changing rooms to tog up in our rubber onesies and capture a few mandatory instagram snaps. If you already consider yourself a pro or maybe if you've already had a lesson or two, you'll be pleased to know that Laneez hires out surf boards at reasonable prices. If you're surfing during low season then you can hire a board for an all day session and in high season you can hire for two hours at a time, which we think is all the time you'll need for a gratifying surfing experience. There is really no limit on when you surf either, Dan told us that they've even had some courageous/ insane few who have surfed with Laneez during mid December. Better them than us! It's June now though, and with Jersey's beaches warming up a fraction, we think there's no better time to grab your mates, family or even colleagues for a fun day on the waves.

The fact that there was two of us in the lesson provided us with a thorough yet intimate tutorial, so much so that within one hour we managed to stand up on the board a few times. Success! With a few smug glances to one another as our level progressed, it became clear that this wasn't just a lesson, but a competition. If you decide to come with a party, we think you'll relish the chance to flaunt your skills whilst being slyly smug when someone else nose dives. "Nice try!" roughly translating to "Aha! Look who's down now!"

As well as private surf lessons and parties, Laneez runs a summer surf camp- a jam packed week of surfing to ensure a deep understanding of the sport and even includes a session at Creepy Valley. One for the ladies, Surf and Yoga provides a harmonious combination of sport and relaxation for you to recharge and strengthen your state of mind.

Any plans next week? No? Well give Laneez a call on 07797 718150 or visit www.laneez.com to book your perfect surfing package. Open from 10am to 5.30pm, 7 days a week, you really have no excuse. We think it's a must.

Stand up and be counted.

If you've ever visited the stunning St. Brelade Bay you can't have missed the electric blue Landrovers parked up in the centre of the beach. This is the location of Absolute Adventures and the starting point to your journey to become the ultimate Stand Up Paddle Boarder. We're always up for trying out new stuff on the rock, so we were stoked to give it a try! Admittedly, we were a little dubious as what to expect from a sport we knew so little about so we were keen to not only to master balancing on what seemed like a large surf board but also to comprehend the overarching concept of the sport. Stand Up Paddle Boarding is incredibly varied and adds a whole new dimension to riding waves. If you're a thrill

As we glided (yes, glided, it's really not that hard) out to sea, we chatted with an enthusiastic Laurie about her fascinating experiences. She told us about a woman who had mastered the skill and had even returned to Absolute Adventures for further sessions. So what? She was seventy seven.

seeker then consider surfing the waves with your Stand Up Paddle  $\,$ Board. If you're an eager explorer, then you'll love that SUP enables you to go coasteering along the picturesque coastline. And if you're like us and are just looking for some replenishing tranquility and fancy chilling out, basking in the sun, then Stand Up Paddle Boarding is ideal for you. Instructor Laurie was eager to inform James and I a little more about stand up paddle boarding before we hit the water and we quickly discovered that it is one of the fastest growing water sports in the world and is becoming increasingly popular in Jersey, even amongst the more skilled surfers. Luckily for us, the boards come in varying types for varying abilities. From the inflatable boards for beginners to elite carbon race boards for customers who have shown skill and enthusiasm to progress in the sport, there really is a board for us all. We had booked an early morning session and were delighted to wake up to be blinded by the sun. Since St. Brelade Bay + the sun = visual perfection, we knew we weren't going to be disappointed. The lesson consisted of a quick yet efficient tutorial which allowed us longer on the water so we could grasp the technique

As we glided (yes, glided, it's really not that hard) out to sea, we chatted with an enthusiastic Laurie about her fascinating experiences. She told us about a woman who had mastered the skill and had even returned to Absolute Adventures for further sessions. So what? She was seventy seven. OH. We wish we had a grandma like that. And if I, a nineteen year old girl with laughable coordination skills, a hyperactive fourteen year old and a seventy seven year old lady can balance and paddle at the same time, then so can you. And if you just can't hack it; your friends will find it pretty damn hilarious watching you struggle.

Absolute Adventurers are lenient with their working hours in order to give you the best experience on the water as possible. They even offer sensational sunset tours! An evening meal at the beach, a mojito and a sunset tour of the coastline sounds like our idea of a perfect evening! You could even take this opportunity to organise an evening team building outing for your colleagues. Absolute Adventures provides a service which fosters positive working relationships through carefully planned group challenges requiring team work, problem solving and communication. They facilitate activities which teach staff and bosses alike to become more efficient, effective and achieve results while unwinding and having fun. Beach based team building at its best. Plus, if you're going with your boss, we think you would revel in the opportunity to see them frantically fall off a paddle board into the not quite so warm English Channel. Muahaha.

Go on... Try something new and book your Stand Up Paddle Boarding experience with Absolute Adventures. And if that really doesn't float your boat (ouch), then you'll love to know that they are rated a whopping #3 on Jersey activities on Trip Advisor and also offer Kayak Tours, Coasteering, Blokart & X-sailing, Banana Rides, Inflatable Rides, Rentals, Wakeboarding, Rock Climbing and RIB Boat rides. # CHANNELING ENERGY ost people travelling from England to France would take a conventional mode of transport. They might fly, they might take a ferry or the Eurotunnel or they might even sail. Few, very few, would elect to walk into the sea from Dover's Shakespeare Beach dressed only in a conventional swimming costume, hat and goggles and, with the cheers of a support crew ringing in their ears, swim solo across the busiest shipping lane in the world to fulfill a personal dream.

Such a person is Jersey born, Chantelle Rose.

Weather permitting, and sometime between 15th and 20th July, Chantelle will be undertaking this mammoth challenge in aid of The Antoine Trust, a Jersey charity which raises money to support Jersey children on the island undergoing cancer treatment. The trust aims to enhance the type of care that children and their families receive whilst undergoing cancer treatment. In conjunction with Health & Social Services a dedicated paediatric oncology nurse has now been appointed. The trust has undertaken to fund this post for the next three years.

Chantelle's lead up to her Channel swim has been carefully managed. In 2011 she swam around Jersey in a time of 12 hours 59 minutes and also swam the annual 10.5 mile Lake Windermere race. Last year saw her swim from Jersey to France in 10 hours 17 minutes and it was just a few weeks later that she decided to undertake the ultimate challenge.

Over last winter Chantelle trained for up to seven hours a week in the pool with fellow Channel aspirants, Graeme Lowe, Annette Campbell, Wendy Tréhiou and Sally Minty-Gravett and other members of the Jersey Long Distance Swimming Club as well as with Jersey Swimming Club Masters. She also took a weekly dip in the sea where the water temperature fell to a mind numbing 6C (brrrrr!)!

The beginning of May saw these hardy swimmers eschewing the chlorine filled comforts of Aquasplash, Langford and Quennevais pools for the brine and tumult of Jersey's seas and advanced training. Ten and twenty minute swims soon gave way to one and two hour plus dips with acclimatization and endurance being the main aim. Chantelle is now swimming up to four hours at a time leading to a split weekend swim of six and four hours after which she will taper down in preparation for the main event.

Chantelle is now swimming up to four hours at a time leading to a split weekend swim of six and four hours after which she will taper down in preparation for the main event.

As well as homegrown athletes, each year sees swimmers from every continent travel to Dover to pit their wits and personal courage against all that the notoriously fickle English Channel can throw their way. In worldwide open water swimming the English Channel is seen as the most prestigious, the most iconic of all the great swims. Since 1875, when Captain Matthew Webb became the first person to swim the English Cannel, little more than 1000 people have completed the swim. In fact an often repeated statistic is that more people have reached the summit of Everest than have swum the English Channel. Upon success Chantelle will be the 25th Jersey Channel swimmer.

As Captain Webb famously said: "Nothing great is easy." Chantelle Rose is aiming to be one of the victorious. She says, "This will be my hat trick of sea swims and the toughest one so far. I am very grateful to Mr and Mrs David Crossland who have sponsored the cost of my Channel swim, which has enabled me to concentrate on raising as much as I can for The Antoine Trust. I am looking forward to this challenge very much. Then I want to swim just to keep fit!"

KEEN SAILORS ARE ONCE AGAIN PREPARING FOR THE BIGGEST EVENT IN THE SAILING CALENDAR, THE CAREY OLSEN INTER-ISLAND YACHT RACE, WHICH CELEBRATES ITS 50TH ANNIVERSARY THIS YEAR.

The race, which alternates in direction every year, will begin in Jersey at 11.30 a.m. on Saturday 29 June and will see the yachts competing through the 24 miles to Guernsey, followed by a sixties themed 'golden anniversary' party and presentation evening for the skippers and their crews.

Julian Barber, commodore of the St Helier Yacht Club said: "The inter-island yacht race is a very important event in the Channel Islands' sailing calendar and is always unpredictable due to the weather. This year there are 25 awards to be won so there is something for everyone to enjoy and the evening of flamboyant 60's entertainment at GYC promises to be a good night."

The race awards cover a number of different categories including; the overall race winner, first bilge keel, first Melges 24, first Beneteau, first quarter tonner, first family boat and first young skipper. There are two new categories this year: 'white sails only', more suited to cruising yachts and those who aren't serious racers, and 'first J' for owners of all types of J yacht.

Alex Ohlsson, managing partner of Carey Olsen in Jersey said: "We are very pleased to be sponsoring this event for a fourth year and to have played a part in helping it reach this milestone. We are looking forward to celebrating the golden anniversary with those who have taken part in, and won, the race over its many years of history."

Boats from Jersey have racked up more wins than their counterparts in Guernsey having won 29 races out of a total of 48 races, (no boats finished in 1982) with Guernsey claiming 19 victories.

The fastest time ever recorded for the race was by Bruce Harland in 1996 sailing Jersey boat Gorillas in the Mist, a Melges 24.

Allen Brown, who has won the race 4 times including the 2012 race, said: "Having competed in the Inter-Island Yacht Race since 1977, there have certainly been some memorable moments including the 1977 race where we surfed on the quarter wave of a much bigger yacht from Corbiere to St Peter Port, effectively being towed all the way! Last year's race was the most memorable of all with Force 6 winds, huge swell and waves where we took the lead at Corbiere and finished 5 minutes ahead of the second boat."

Winner of the 2011 race, David Jones said, "I've been taking part for many years and have come second and third before. My late father won the race in 2004 so it is fantastic to follow in his footsteps, my whole family is delighted," said Mr Jones.

Entry forms are now available and should be submitted by 22 June 2013 and are available from the Guernsey Yacht Club or St Helier Yacht Club, by email at gyc@cwgsy.net or for download at www.careyolseninterislandyachtrace.com

BOULEY BAY PONTOON BACK FOR SUMMER

THE PONTOON AT BOULEY BAY HAS BEEN RETURNED TO THE WATER IN TIME FOR THE SUMMER SEASON.

The pontoon was removed in November last year for its annual winter storage as well as usual maintenance checks and repair works, which have now been completed. At the time, ownership and future responsibility for the pontoon was in doubt as the original association, which first applied and received a grant from the Tourism Development Fund in 2004 to purchase the pontoon to enhance the Bouley Bay area and look after it, had since disbanded.

However, following positive discussions with Parish officials and interested businesses in the area, a new association has been established. Furthermore, Ports of Jersey has agreed to take ownership of the pontoon and will take responsibility for future maintenance work as and when required, including providing public liability insurance cover.

Chief Operating Officer for Marine at Ports of Jersey, Barry Goldman says, 'I am delighted that the earlier doubts surrounding the future of the pontoon has been amicably resolved thanks to the establishment of a new association. Like many others we are pleased to see the pontoon back in the water at Bouley Bay, in readiness for the forthcoming summer season'.

Speaking on behalf of the newly established Bouley Bay Association, Mark Neal from the Water's Edge Hotel, says, 'We have had some positive discussions with the relevant authorities over the winter period and as such we would like to thank the Ports of Jersey for its continuing support in ensuring that the pontoon has been returned to the water for the future enjoyment of swimmers and divers.'

RNLI LIFEGUARDS RETURN FOR THEIR THIRD YEAR OF SUCCESSFUL LIFESAVING IN JERSEY

Since taking over the lifeguard service in 2011, as part of the contract with the Economic Development Department, the charity have endeavoured to create lifequard training opportunities for local people and this year, Jersey lifesavers make up over 70 per cent of the RNLI team patrolling the Island's beaches. St Ouen's, St Brelades, Greve de Lecq and Plemont beaches will all be patrolled from Saturday 18 May. Ed Stevens, RNLI Lifeguard Supervisor says; 'It's great to be back in Jersey, the lifeguards have been busy training over the last couple of weeks so we're eager to get started and hopeful for a hot and busy summer. We're absolutely delighted with the progress towards both our, and Economic Development's ultimate goal of creating a sustainable team of locally based lifeguards. This season, 15 of the 19 lifeguards working on Jersey's beaches are local people. The other four are returning lifeguards, three based in the UK and one Australian. It's an extremely strong team with a lot of lifeguarding experience between them."

Senator Alan Maclean, Minister for Economic Development commented: 'I am delighted to welcome back the RNLI lifeguard's to patrol our beaches. I am particularly pleased to see that our objective of creating jobs for locals within the service is paying huge dividends within such a short space of time. After so many years of importing lifeguards from overseas, the success of the comprehensive RNLI training programme combined with the talent of locals, has succeeded in turning Jersey into an exporter of world class lifeguards.'

WISHING FOR A BETTER BODY....AND MIND? LOUISE STENT,

DIRECTOR OF AUGRÉ PHYSIOTHERAPY

Summer is almost upon us and many of us are thinking about how we can achieve a better body and look our very best. Better health, more exercise and increased fitness can be the key to a more confident. fitter and less stressed you.

So now is the perfect time to think about really getting on a health and fitness fast track with a Personal Trainer. Many of us blame our busy lifestyles for lack of motivation when it comes to exercise but the benefits of a personal trainer can be amazing. Working with a Personal Trainer is no longer seen as a luxury; many people now see it as a positive lifestyle change, which can make a real difference to your long term health and wellbeing.

How many times have you had great intentions to get fit, but spending an hour at the gym is tougher than you thought and the prospect of a night in with the TV and a takeaway seems much more appealing?

That's where a personal trainer comes in! It's all about 'one on one' advice, guidance and motivation. Just putting the appointment in your diary is motivating and their experience and knowledge will ensure you stay on track and don't get bored.

The great news is that Kieran Norman our Sports Therapist at Augré

FIBREGLASS BUMPER INSPIRED BY ALIEN VERSUS PREDATOR

For all of their gargantuan R&D budgets and years spent painstakingly designing and refining their vehicles, you have to admit that major vehicle manufacturers do play things a bit safe before unleashing their latest model onto the streets, leaving plenty of scope for the end user to generously slather the metalflake and pinstriped fibreglass icing on top of their automotive cake. And by 'end user' I mean end of life user, long after their grandmother has hung up her driving gloves and popped her race clogs.

Sure, those extensively tested, Euro NCAP compliant front bumpers might save the shins of a small child who happens to be blindly bumbling across the road, steely eyes focussed solely on the Angry Birds fluttering across the screen of their iPod touch, the latest Top 40 tunes banging in their ears, but if they ain't scraping a few thou of asphalt from each and every speed bump you crawl over at 5mph then you're doing a disservice to your Burger Boy brethren. Shame on you.

Hell's Angels proudly proclaim that loud pipes save lives and who are you to disagree with these leather clad, unkempt hirsute elders of the road? Fit the largest exhaust back box you can find and tell all of your mates that you can definitely feel the 'extra 10 horsepower' claimed by the manufacturer, who likely designed it for use on a vehicle fifty times more powerful than your tupperware terror. What's a 9.8 horsepower difference between friends anyway?

Improving aerodynamic efficiency should also be high on your priority list if you want to go any way to counteracting the reduced acceleration you'll suffer from doubling the size of your rims and increasing their overall rolling diameter. Fear not though, fibreglass is lightweight, right? Even when you've plastered it all over the lower part of your chariot and tripled the curb weight that the mighty (mightily asthmatic) 50.2 bhp hairdryer will now have to lug around wheezily.

I have to come clean at this point, and as much as the Max Power generation have all since grown up and bought far more sensible cars to take their kids to school in and the youth modification culture of today has managed to evolve to tone things down slightly, I am guilty of having owned a Metro GTa with a healthy 3.5 inch (88.9 millimetres, aspiring boy and girl racers) exhaust. The lure of a rocker cover with the words '16 VALVE TWIN CAM' proudly cast into it was just too much to resist. If only I'd have known that head gaskets were essentially a service item I might have thought twice and saved myself from the shame. At least there were no lairy spoilers or bucket seats, which let's face it, are just uncomfortable unless you're only using them for a few hours at a time on the track.

The moral of this tongue-in-cheek story? It's probably better to save your pennies for something better and wait until insurance companies hate you a bit less. Because when you're under 25, they really do tend to hate you

EGOOD EBAD

It is said that art is subjective and that beauty is in the eye of the beholder, but what exactly is it that makes these three examples good, bad and just plain ugly respectively?

The Citroën 2CV 'Picasso' was created by Andy Saunders, world-renowned sculptor of cars hailing from Dorset and is pure art, with a rationale. The Citroën Saxo, middle, however, is an example of what inspired the article to the left - thousands upon thousands of pounds spent on a small luke-warm hatchback designed for aspiring young drivers and the final example? Well, I'm not even sure what it is, although it looks like a hybridisation of an Audi TT, Shelby Series 1. BMW Z3 and a Silver Spirit, to name but a few. On wheels from a VW Beach Buggy. Is it just art for art's sake? Is it even art? I'll let you decide - art is subjective after all.

AUDI RS4 AVANT IS OFFICIALLY BRILLIANT

Honest John, well respected fictional internet personality has announced that these are brilliant, and with a massive V8 and room for almost anything you might care to carry at up to 193mph (double delimited version) who are we to argue? I'd also really like to test drive one for Gallery. Hint hint. Buy one, buy one now. Audi is available from Jacksons, tel. 497777

COLD FEET FOR ASTON MARTIN OWNERS?

In the literal sense, I mean, because this CC100 Speedster concept has gaping holes for doors. A tribute to 100 years of the brand, it looks mad in the best way.

MG BRIBES PUBLIC WITH M&S VOUCHER

This isn't just any test drive offer. This is a Chinese backed, revived badge ten pound M&S 'dine in for two' test drive offer. Personally, I fear that the stakes aren't high enough, unless you're homeless, hungry and have absolutely no shame. Or you're wearing a wig. Either way, if you did happen to be in the market for an MG6 you can pick one up from as little as £199 per month and they'll even give you tickets and some branded British Touring Car Championship clobber, if that's your bag.

RENAULT GIVES YOU... SPOILERS?

Celebrating their third Formula 1 Constructors' world title, Renault and Red Bull Racing have teamed up outside of the dizzying world of DRS and dominatrixes to create a special edition Megane RenaultSport finished in twilight blue and platinum grey with Red Bull Racing detailing, Recaro seats, fancy Bridgestone tyres and version 2.0 of the on-board RS Monitor, which means you can view lap times, performance telemetry and G-Force readouts as well as download them to a USB dongle for analysis. And to brag to your mates down at the pub, of course. They're only building 30 of them so if you're after one you had better get a deposit down quicker than a Megane 265 Trophy around the Nordschleife. (You've got 8 minutes, 7.97 seconds, by the way)

Active 3D TV

Our experience of television has been completely revolutionised over the past decade, to the extent that reality can be so vividly captured on our screens at home. Many of us are yet to take full advantage of the revolutionary technologies available, or know little about how to maximise our televisual experience.

To save you all the research you just need to go to one place, Fotosound and see the new Sony W9 range of LED televisions which feature the Triluminos display, unique to the market and only available within the Sony experience. Sony's revolutionary display signifies a distinct break away from the flat colours you may be used to and instead give vivid, intense colour on a choice of 40", 46" and 55" displays. The Trilumious display paired with the Dynamic Edge LED backlighting emphasises light and dark when you need them most, giving sharp contrast and maximum visual effect.

The Sony W9 features Long Duct speakers, adding maximum impact whether you're viewing your favourite film or want to watch the big match live. The immense cinematic sound and Active 3D technologies immerse you into the action. With the Sony W9 range, you are no longer just watching the action unfold, you become part it. Just as you become part of the experience, the distinctive "Sense of Quartz" design becomes an effortlessly stylish yet understated part of your home.

Gone are the days you find yourself frantically searching for the remote control to discover it has sunk deep into the depths of the sofa. With the one-touch mirroring technology of the Sony W9 you can use your smartphone to control the TV. Swipe, enlarge, move and select content on the big screen for all to see, including videos, photos, apps and more.

Sony are also giving away one of their latest smartphones when you purchase one of their new TVs from the W8 or W9 ranges; this offer being available only until the end of June. Visit Fotosound for more information.

SONY XPERIA SP

JERSEY'S OWN DJ HANNAH JACQUES GIVES HER VIEWS ON THE SONY XPERIA SP FOR AIRTEL VODAFONE

I'm a big user of Facebook. Twitter, and Instagram, and one of the things I really like about the Xperia SP is how easy taking and uploading photos was. The shots were good, even in the club.

This is a midrange phone, but it still looks and feels good, with a transparent LED strip and plenty of functions.

The screen's bigger and better than you'd expect, and really good for watching videos. It's also got enough power to manage all the day-to-day things that you'd use your phone for.

All in all, not bad at all, and in Airtel-Vodafone now.

A NEW DEFINITION FOR HD

THE SONY XPERIA Z BRINGS A WHOLE NEW MEANING TO HIGH DEFINITION

The 5 inch screen on this communication and entertainment hub will have you wondering how you ever got by with lesser displays in the past.

Using expertise from Sony's Bravia television engineers, the full 1080 pixel HD screen has a very high pixel density giving superb brightness even in the sunniest of conditions. Built around the Mobile BRAVIA® Engine 2, the screen automatically optimises images so they're sharper and brighter, making it easy for you to see.

This screen is about more than images, thanks to the OptiContrastTM panel, it looks incredible when on and reverts to a sleek, perfectly black look when off.

It's not just the screen that is taking HD to new levels, the 13 megapixel camera, powered by the Exmor RS® image sensor offers the world's first HDR video for smartphones, ensuring you can take beautiful still and moving images even against the strongest light.

With full Wi-Fi and 3G/4G connectivity, the Xperia Z lets you take full advantage of the Internet and social media, enabling you to share images and files at the touch of a button. If you have a Bravia TV at home, the one-touch mirroring with Near Field Communication (NFC) technology means you can seamlessly switch between the phone and the TV display without the bother of cables.

If all of this wasn't enough, the Sony Xperia Z is no delicate flower. Made from glass fibre polyamide that's as tough as metal, the Xperia Z is both water and dust resistant.

The Sony Xperia Z is available soon in the Sure Store in town. It's free on the Smart Ultimate price plan and for a limited period, comes with a free Bluetooth headset.

CLUTTER

INTERIOR DESIGN HAS COME A LONG WAY SINCE THE 90'S WHEN WE WERE TREATED TO THE EXPLOITS OF BUDDING TV PRESENTER LAWRENCE LLEWELYN-BOWEN AND HIS ATTEMPTS TO TURN EVERY PROPERTY INTO A REPLICA OF A 19TH CENTURY PARISIAN KNOCKING-SHOP.

The way we see it, most modern homes and building renovations fall into two categories of interior finish (there are a few more but we don't have all day...), clean-lined and minimalist or modern-classic-shaker style. Both of which have a similarity, no clutter!

This minimalistic ideal is also fast becoming prevalent when it comes to filling a contemporary home with cutting edge technology. Harking back to the 80's and 90's once again, the idea was to go big and show off the latest behemoth TV, speakers and stacked sound system whilst taking pride in the multitude of remotes that were needed to control it all. Let's not forget the tasteful, swivel-base CD racks bursting with cracked-cases and mismatched innards. An exception of course, was the 'All-in-one remote' for the real high-flyers but lets face it, programming those was always more troublesome and time consuming than pressing the 10 buttons required to blast out some ABBA in the first place!

Fast forward to the modern day and we see a very different picture..

Hardware has become smaller, wireless, integrated and much more affordable thanks to economic boom in the east. TV's are wafer thin and entire home cinemas can be hidden behind motorised canvas pictures of family and friends. Amplifiers, evicted from front and centre, tucked away out of sight, no tape decks or CD trays, merely docking stations to charge iPhones and iPads. Record players that we're once sat atop a rack of faders and buttons are now more often seen displayed like a piece of art, individually lit for effect yet still fully capable (we hope!) of mesmerising guests with Mile Davis and Nina Simone.

For the more enthusiastic of us stay-at-home movie goers, who still require a true cinematic experience, super high-quality HD and 3D projectors are readily available from all the big manufacturers for the price of a decent TV -

NOKIA LUMIA 520

AVAILABLE FREE ON A GREEN 18 MONTH MYMOBILE PLAN FROM JT. HANDSET ONLY PRICE

£154 The Lumia 520 fits in at the bottom of Nokia's spectrum, providing an entry level smartphone for those who do not wish to break the bank. The 4 inch handset houses a 5 megapixel camera in a very similar design to that of its bigger brother, the Lumia 620. Available in black or white, this handset is neat and tidy and Nokia's IPS LCD screen works well under your fingertips. Whilst it does not house all the capabilities of its older brother, it still runs on the Windows 8 operating system through a 1 GHz dual-core processor, which means you get that great personalised home screen set up and a quick, reliable machine for an economical price!

CONTINUED> Not so long ago, a 25 year mortgage would have been required for the motorised screen alone! Couple said projector with a trick projector lift, motorised screen or a suitable white paint, blackout blinds hidden in the ceiling and an entire 7.2 system disguised as canvas prints and you have a modern and clean living space able to transform into The Odeon (Yeah.... Old school... Minus Asbestos) at the tap of a finger.

So, the elephant in the room...? Infrastructure! In order to hide everything away and achieve the dream of clean lines and cutting edge technology, there is a little work to be done behind the scenes. Not a big deal on a new-build, but an intimidating thought on a renovation / retrofit for those not as familiar with the technology, but never fear, select a knowledgeable outfit to guide your aspirations and the vast majority of effects can be achieved wirelessly or a least without breaking out the heavy plant.

Home Automation systems have come a long way in the past few years, we're at a point now where if you (or your friendly integrator) can dream it up, almost anything be configured to be commanded from an iPad. From Wurlitzer Jukeboxes to patio and pool heaters, there really are no bounds! Among all the techie cliches currently being banded about in our industry, our current favourite and one that really portrays the direction the big players in the smart home game are heading is "Ambient Intelligence" - A system of invisible technology and programming that goes beyond expensive keypads  $% \left\{ \left\{ 1\right\} \right\} =\left\{ 1\right\}$ and motion sensors and into the realms of your property becoming aware of your location, habits, desires and mood and reacting accordingly dependant on the time of day, season or (let's not talk about seasons...) temperature. Some saw the first stage of this [r] evolution coming years ago - Listen carefully to Steve Jobs talk about the iPod moniker around the time of it's release and the path to it becoming a phone seems obvious. The trick is in visualising the end result, letting your mind run free and selecting the right people to make it happen.

So next time you sit day dreaming of your Grand Design, remember that technology doesn't have to be intimidating, complex or intrusive like Mr. Llewelyn-Bowen.... Or something like that...!

Beyond Computers Gadget of the month

Samsung Galaxy S4

It's the same size as its predecessor, but they've managed to cram even more technology inside AND make the screen larger (now 5") and presents itself in full HD.

Packed with an improved camera and NFC (that's near field communications, to the rest of us) the foundations are in place to use these new advances in place of familiar personal items - paying for low value purchases with a tap of your phone instead of a bank card, for example.

High quality construction, materials and a thickness of under 8mm all contribute toward one stunning handset, all in a familiar package reminiscent of the S3.

Sensors on the face of the handset can deduce the proximity of the phone to your ear and even track your eyes for the purpose of making video calls, and whilst you may not immediately think these are features that you're looking for in a mobile telphone, you're sure to wonder how you ever lived without them as you use it more and more each day.

GALLERY INTRODUCING...

MIKE NIXON and his 'Captivating Content'

Mike Nixon has been a boy about town for quite sometime... He's always had his finger in some musical pie or another and has always leaned toward electronic music and all the trappings of it; from artwork and design to DJs and the latest technology, some might say Mike is a bit of a geek – in fact, Mike would say he's a bit of a geek when it comes to music of the electronic variety.

As with many faces about town on this microcosm of an island, Mike has faced a few demons - before leaving the rock, he's interested in laying a few of those demons to rest as he embarks on a fresh reality... Saying sorry to a few and thanks to many more, Mike Nixon has finally found his groove and is taking the last 15 years worth of experience to pastures new... We caught up with Mike to get the lowdown on his latest venture and to find out where 'Poster Boy' has been hiding for the past two years or so... So, from The Melancholy Death of Poster Boy, emerges the fully-grown and ready to tackle the world, Mike Nixon smoking jacket and all...

Starting off in Jersey with the formidable crew from Sanctuary (Fort Regent) many moons ago, Mike was happily immersed in the local scene, gaining experience and a wealth of knowledge from the likes of electronic experts Marc Mitchell, Mikey Ashford, Stuart King and Paul Mac. Unfortunately, Mike burned some bridges there and found himself on the wrong side of the scene... As with any avid lover of music, Mike carved out various roles in Jersey that had any link to his treasured forte and interest - not easy in such a small environment and after bouncing around from club to club, Mike carried out an array of roles, from promoter to club manager, event organiser to DJ... and his old alter ego, Poster Boy.

It seems that all of this toing and froing, although tedious for Mike at the time, was integral in shaping his character in preparation for his current position... that position being a starting block for a leap from Jersey, back to the UK where he originally came from. "The process of getting off the rock isn't going to be easy..." said Mike, "But it seems to be a natural progression after two years working solidly and creating music and mixes for various online radio stations across the globe." You see, Mike's current project; his baby (aside from Willow the curious pussycat who spends most of her time on Mike's shoulder as he makes tunes in his studio), is 'Captivating Content'... Captivating Content, as the name suggests, is the title of Mike Nixon's radio mixes and has seemingly captivated the attention of promoters and broadcasters from Ireland to Mexico. When asked what spurred on this growth and dedication to his music throughout the past two years, Mike attributes most of it to his beautiful partner, Oana...

Locally, Mike has been working alongside Kamil (The Blind Pig), who has been instrumental in inspiring Mike. "Camil has introduced me to a number of producers and promoters... He's helped shape what I've been doing lately. It was Camil who encouraged me to play at the Harve des Pas Festival and a couple of gigs at Tanguys. I've got a lot to thank him for."

We asked Mike where things started and how he came to be on radio, with a show being confirmed in Japan as we chatted...

"So it started in about 2000, when I met Lloyd at Delta I guess... Then I got immersed in the local scene back at Fern valley parties... From there I started flyering for Rhumba and then went on to work at The Venue where I met the likes of Warren Le Sueur - all the people I met have essentially become inspirational to me... I didn't realize it much at the time, but now... I went away for a bit and when I got back to Jersey from travelling I met Dave at Pure (I sort of became his understudy). I've so much to thank Dave for. 3 years ago I did a collaboration mix with Kamil which was broadcast on Frisky Radio, I also had a couple of guest mixes go out on Tunnel.fm and then I did a mix called 'The Day After the Night Before' in 2011 and thats when I landed my Captivating Content Show on www.lightwave.gr, from there came guest mixes in Mexico and another in Sweden. Last year I joined Innervisions Radio..."

Captivating Content is picking up followers every day and as such Mike's confidence has grown, enabling him to move onto bigger and brighter things. His devotion to emotion in his music is evident as we sit and listen through a few of the mixes that caught the attention of people from all over. "It's nice knowing that I can take someone for an hour, or two hours, on a musical journey and get inside their head – I love the notion of people being captivated and more importantly, moved by my music..." hence the name, Captivating Content.

We asked Mike how he'd best describe his music, having listened to some seriously moving mixes – unlike your usual selection of tracks, Captivating Content is something of a journey... tracks are taken apart and rebuilt again, layered and ambient... Thanks to Captivating Content, mike has a slot in June at the infamous Ministry of Sound and there are more dates in more venues to be confirmed... in the meantime, Mike will be creating more Captivating Content for radio.

Mike has produced a mix especially for Gallery readers, go to soundcloud.com/mikenixon or http://www.mixcloud.com/tag/captivating-content/ and check 'Time will tell' Gallery exclusive... that one's for you.

JUNE MUSIC & NIGHTLIFE LISTINGS

SUMMER'S HERE, AND THAT CAN MEAN BUT ONE THING. IT'S PARTY TIME. HERE ARE SIX OF THE BEST GOINGS-ON NIGHTLIFE AND MUSIC-WISE.

SMILE WITH DJS WARREN LE SUEUR & SIMON GASSTON

Jersey Live and Theology's Warren Le Sueur and Simon Gasston have teamed up for a new night at Havana's Chilli Bar, celebrating all things house music. The genre might have had a recent renaissance amongst the yoof, but these chaps have been at it since the early 90's and their knowledge of classic, contemporary and cutting-edge house music is encyclopedic. Smile focuses on the new stars of the house scene, so expect to hear tracks from upcoming Jersey Live Dance Stagers Waze & Odyssey, Hot Since 82 and Dusky, alongside the likes of Eats Everything, Catz N Dogz, Totally Enormous Extinct Dinosaurs and Disclosure, to name but a few. If you're keen on staying at the forefront of what's going on in the dance music world, Smile looks like a good port of call. Cool beats aplenty await.

June, 10.30pm - 2am / Free entry

ALL MOD CONS

Local indie DJ Stephen Orr has put rock n' roll on the dancefloors of the Live Lounge, Rojo and Fort Regent (as part of March's Blkout event), and he brings his record bag to Havana's Chilli Bar for a night of indie, rock, and mod bangers - expect to hear Jake Bugg, Rolling Stones, The Black Keys, Kasabian, The Doves, The Stone Roses, David Bowie, The Verve, The Jam, Two Door Cinema Club, The Libertines, Arctic Monkeys, The Strokes, The Who, The Doors, Foster The People, Oasis, Primal Scream, The Beatles, MGMT, The Charlatans, Miles Kane, Richard Ashcroft, The White Stripes, Babyshambles, The Vaccines, BRMC, Pulp, Hot Chip, The Kinks, Ocean Colour Scene, Jamie T, Ben Howard, The Seahorses, Kula Shaker, Beck, Mumford & Sons, Block Party, Kings of Leon, Joy Division, Gomez, T Rex, The Smiths, The Coral, Temper Trap, Supergrass, The Specials, Alt J, The Strypes, Of Monsters and Men, and many more. Says Stephen. 10pm - 2am / Free Entry

PHONETIC FREEFALL PRESENTS... MR THING + JOE DRISCOLL

The ever adventurous fellas at Phonetic Freefall return to the Splash with another corking lineup – a double headline show featuring former UK DMC scratch champion and ex-Scratch Pervert Mr Thing, as well as multi-instrumentalist loop pedal whizz Joe Driscoll. Hailing from New York, Driscoll is a favourite on the UK festival circuit, having performed at Bestival and Glastonbury, and has toured with the likes of Sugarhill Gang, Regina Spektor and Dirty Pretty Things. Cee Lo Green called him "the gangsta with the iron lung" – which we believe to be a compliment, although Green was unavailable for comment. Mr Thing will no doubt be wowing the Splash crowd with his superhuman beat juggling and scratching skills, with breaks and hip hop aplenty, and as if that wasn't enough, the support bill includes Tru Thoughts' Mo'Matics, Guernsey's favourite Hip Hop, funk and soul DJ Oneofakind and local experimentalists Harlequin Knights live. The tickets are a bloomin' bargain as well. Gallery gives this a firm thumbs up.

ROCKSTEADY & GALLERY PRESENT... CARNIVAL with DUKE DUMONT

We're delighted to have teamed up with Rocksteady to present what we expect to be the party of the month, headlined by recent chart topper Duke Dumont. Kicking off during the day with a Brazilian barbecue with DJs on the terrace and the Gallery Silent Disco Bus transporting revellers to Jersey Bowl, the party continues into the evening with a mouthwatering lineup of Jersey's finest DJ talent. Carrie Cooper, Chaka's Lyle de la Cloche and more man the decks outdoors, whilst inside Full Flow host a room featuring sets from Philosophy of House, Ashley Ford and many more. The main room of course is headlined by Duke Dumont, who scored a number one single at the end of March with 'Need U (100%), and has quickly become one of the most sought-after DJs and producers around. He's remixed Lily Allen, Alunageorge and Bat For Lashes, received radio airplay from just about every reputable DJ you can think of, and his touring schedule this summer takes him to Bestival, Oxegen, Lovebox and of course, Ibiza. He's rather a star in the making, and the perfect headliner for an already tasty looking party (even if we do say so ourselves.) Do come and join us! Jersey Bowl, Saturday 22nd June, 3pm - 2am / Tickets £12.50 (night) /

PIRATE PARTY BRIGADE LIVE

Jersey's favourite party-starting pirates return to The Star for a free show, and you can expect their live brass-infused blend of Hip Hop, folk and funk to once again raise the roof. Be sure to wear your jumpingaround-and-being-silly shoes.

THE CRYPTICS LIVE

Garage rock revivalists The Cryptics continue their monthly residency at the Ha'Penny Bridge. Local live music fans should be well acquainted with the Cryptics scuzzy R&B (the Kinks kind, not the R Kelly type), and for those who aren't, we suggest you get yourself along to the Bridge what will surely be a suitably raucous show.

CARNIVAL TIME

— WITH —

ROCKSTEADY & GALLERY

ON JUNE 22ND GALLERY JOIN FORCES WITH LOCAL HOUSE AND TECHNO PROMOTERS ROCKSTEADY TO PRESENT 'CARNIVAL', ONE OF THE BIGGEST DANCE MUSIC EVENTS OF THE YEAR.

Taking place at Jersey Bowl, Carnival is a veritable feast of food and music headlined by chart-topping new star Duke Dumont, whose 'Need U (100%)' announced the producer-DJs arrival on the big stage, and that's not to mention a daytime and evening bill featuring Jersey's top DJ talents. With cool beats and cocktails on the terrace, a Brazilian barbecue, the Gallery Silent Disco bus, we expect it to be one of the highlights of the summer, and we caught up with Rocksteady's Ben Newman to find out more about the event in question and what's happening behind the scenes at Rocksteady HQ...

Who are the main people involved with Rocksteady and how do you go about deciding on DJs to book? There's a fair few of us now - myself and John O'Connell oversee things and we have a top team consisting of Danny Booth, Tharindu Elkin, Dan King and Jo Smart who all DJ and are involved in designing our artwork, website etc. We're lucky to have them on board, as they're a talented bunch.

As far as booking acts we only book people we have heard actually DJ; some producers can make great tracks but can be shocking when they take control in a club. We try our best to go for acts that aren't too similar to what other people over here are doing where possible. They also need to have an edge to them, can't stand bland acts that have no discernible personality.

The question we always ask ourselves is - would we pay to see them? The answer has to be yes, and most of time we have, more than once - we often get across to the mainland or Europe to watch two or three DJs and always come back completely inspired, like "we have to book them for Jersey!"

What have been your favourite Rocksteady events over the past six years? Almost too many to mention... A few that stand out are New Year's Eve 2009, when Club Lounge was open, was class - three headline acts, packed club, top atmosphere. The first time we booked Paul Woolford for Pure and there was a huge queue outside by 11pm, needless to say it went off. Last summer we put on a secret outdoor party, the weather was beautiful and we had people up on their feet dancing in the sun all day and in to the night. Our event with Boddika in Pure back in December was another one - he absolutely went for it from the get go and the crowd really responded - it was so intense and could have gone one way or another, fortunately it went more than well!

Talk us through the events you have happening this year... Busy year this year! We've got a big party in conjunction with this very magazine on June 22nd up at Jersey Bowl, with Duke Dumont headlining. Big. It's not the first place that springs to mind for a party but it's an incredibly versatile space and we're going to totally transform it in to a Rio Carnival themed party, starting with a Brazilian BBQ out on the terrace with local DJs, going through the night with the Full Flow guys from Jersey live hosting the second room and of course the aforementioned headliner.

We've got some top acts booked for other spaces, including Dense and Pika, a fully live House and Techno act, Boddika who I mentioned before is coming back due to overwhelming demand, plus a DJ called Jackmaster who hosts one of Radio One's 'In New DJs We Trust' shows and is known to be one of the most technically gifted, party-starting DJs around. Got a few bits lined up for Brighton too that are just coming online at the moment, which is extremely exciting.

Finally, what are Rocksteady's plans for the future? Might we see a Rocksteady festival at some point? Onwards and upwards - I don't really feel that bigger is always better, although there is always temptation to do something like a festival, there would have to be demand, and as we tend to book fairly niche acts it seems unlikely in Jersey. We would never compromise our sound simply to put on a bigger event – seems a bit pointless to me. Never say never though; if people like what we do and enough come along to our parties we would explore the possibility, although the amount of work that goes in to something like that scares me to be honest. It's a full time job at the end of the day.

We have been working hard on producing our own music, although it's a bit stop-start as we're pretty busy and have day jobs! There have been a few late night chats about starting a record label one day but that's some way off yet, no more than a pipe dream really. We are, however, going to start a clothing line; our Jo is an amazing designer and her stuff is too good to just be on a poster that is up for a week or two, tops - the plan is to do super limited runs of each design using top quality materials. People are always saying there aren't enough unique items out there so you never know.

Finally we're going to keep on planning parties in Brighton and further afield. We like to think that our values are such that we can hold a party anywhere, although time will tell no doubt.

'CARNIVAL' HEADLINED BY DUKE DUMONT TAKES PLACE AT JERSEY BOWL ON SATURDAY 22ND JUNE, 3PM - 2AM. NIGHTTIME TICKETS ARE £12.50 (+ BOOKING FEE) AND FULL DAY TICKETS ARE £27.50, INCLUDING COACH TRAVEL TO AND FROM THE PARTY (+ BOOKING FEE), AVAILABLE FROM WHITE LABEL, FROM PARIS WITH LOVE AND ONLINE AT EVENTBRITE.CO.UK

Food for thought

Appetite began when we couldn't find a local restaurant guide that would tell us when all our favourite places were open, and what was on the menu. So we decided to write one ourselves.

The fifth edition of Appetite is out this month and has all the key features you love about your food annual – easy to navigate sections, sample menus and clear contact details as well as a few extra tasty tidbits like interviews, features and special offers and giveaways for Appetite readers.
